NATIONALIST ARMY IS CLOSING IN ON PEKING

Government Party Hopes For Victory in Mexican Presidential Campaign

Opposition Candidate for President Executed —Candidate for Vice-President Reported Captured—All Opposition Members Are Expelled From Parliament

Battle Expected Shortly to Decide Questions Submitted to Electorate

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—Two Federal columns, which are pursuing the two rebel forces under Gomez and Alamada in the State of Vera Cruz, are very close to the enemy, General Alvarez, chief of the presidential staff, announced in a statement this evening. A battle between the Federals and rebels is expected soon. Gomez and Almada have succeeded in uniting their forces, General Alvarez added, and are near a small town called Triunfo, not far from Perote. Two Federal forces under Generals Oscbar and Aguirre are effecting movements intended to surround the rebels. General Alvarez declared that complete tranquility continued to prevail everywhere else in the Republic and that there was no rebel activity except on the part of these two groups.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Mexican Consulate General late today announced receipt of advices declaring that Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, chief surviving presidential opposition candidate, had been captured in Vera Cruz State and executed. Gomez was captured last night and executed this morning, the dispatch said. The source of the information was not disclosed. Another report to the Consulate General said a battle was proceeding within twelve miles of the capital, Mexico City.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 5.—The Mexican Consulate General here announced tonight it had reports that General Arnulfo Gomez was under arrest. It had no information of his reported execution.

OPPOSITION EXPELLED

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—The Chamber of Deputies today expelled from the National Congress all members, twenty-five in all, who had supported the presidential campaigns of Gen. Gomez and the late General Serrano.

The Chamber, in expelling the twenty-five members, said that because of their affiliation with the presidential candidacy of the two generals, they had become unworthy of citizenship of membership in the Congress.

With candles, symbolic of the Catholic faith, burning around his bier, but with no priest present, the body of General Francisco Serrano, presidential candidate, and time Secretary of War and once a bosom friend of former President Obregon, rested in the modest home of his aged mother in Mexico City.

Weeping relatives, telling their rosaries, surrounded the bullet-scarred body of the general, who had paid in full the price of his revolt against the Government.

FURTHER EXECUTIONS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—Further executions are announced in the Calles Government's stern campaign to stamp out the military revolt.

Following upon the news of the execution of General Francisco Serrano, presidential candidate and the thirteen of his prominent followers, a statement issued from the presidential bureau tells of three more captures and summary punishment in widely-separated regions.

In Pachuca, Hidalgo State, northeast of Mexico City, former General Arturo Lazo de La Vega attempted to incite troops to rebellion and was captured and executed.

In Zacatecas City, to the northwest of the capital, former General Alfredo Rodriguez and Norderto A. Olivera, were given the extreme penalty on similar charges.

Requiem Mass

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A requiem mass was celebrated at Farm Street Church, in London, for the Princess Lowenstein Wertheim, who lost her life in the ill-fated transatlantic attempt of the Saint Raphael.

GERMAN PLANE BROUGHT DOWN

Craft Reported to Be Floating on Sea Off Portuguese Cape—SOS. Call Sent Out—Aid Sent

HEAVY SEA MAKES RESCUE DIFFICULT

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 5.—The Portugal admiralty reports that the Junkers plane D-1230 fell into the sea off Santa Cruz. An SOS. was received and the government sent the warship Vasco da Gama, one of a small fleet manoeuvring off the coast to find the plane, which was believed to be between Cape Mondego and Santa Cruz.

The noted Austrian actress Lilli Dillenz is a passenger aboard the D-1230.

LISBON, Oct. 5.—The Junkers plane D-1230 is reported floating off Cape Roda, north of Lisbon, and a pilot boat has gone to the rescue.

The D-1230 took off from Amsterdam this morning on resumption of her intended flight from Germany to the United States by way of the Azores, and first news received here was that she had been forced down near Torres Vedras, where she was beached.

The admiralty, however, later reported that the Junkers had fallen into the sea off Santa Cruz and had sent out an SOS. A warship had been sent to search for her in reply to the call for help. Latest word that the plane was afloat caused the hasty dispatch of a pilot boat with officials of the German Legation aboard. A heavy sea made it difficult for the pilot boat to get near the plane.

INCA INDIANS AGAIN REVOLT

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 5.—The newspaper, Commercio, reports the rising of 1,000 Indians over differences in Coracora province. Gendarmes intervened, and in the ensuing strife two natives are reported to have been killed, and several wounded. The authorities claim to have the situation under control.

TO TRY SANKEY IN SAME PLACE

Request for Change of Venue From Prince Rupert Is Refused by Court of Appeal

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—Joseph Sankey, Port Essington Indian, lost his appeal to have the venue of his new trial for the murder of Miss Loretta Chisholm changed, when the British Columbia Court of Appeal today ruled that Sankey must again be tried in Prince Rupert.

Chief Justice Macdonald, in handing down the judgment of the Court of Appeal, declared that no precedent for such an appeal could be found in the statutes of Canada, or the laws of England. Accordingly, the application of the appellant was dismissed.

Sankey, who was held at Oakalla for several months under sentence of death, was convicted of the slaying of the victim, a school teacher, at Port Essington.

Following conviction an appeal was brought by the defence in the British Columbia Court of Appeals on the ground that an alleged confession of Sankey secured by police should not have been admitted as evidence by the trial judge. The appeal was disallowed. Later the defence carried its appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, where it was allowed. The Supreme Court, in its finding, censured police methods in securing the alleged confession.

Municipalities Prepare For Annual Conference

Union of B.C. Municipalities Will Have Heavy Programme in Nanaimo Shortly—Resolutions Committee Chosen for Convention

THE convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at Nanaimo on October 18 and 19, will be one of the most important in the long record of the organization.

As has been the case since 1916, with one exception, when the municipalities met at Prince Rupert, the Good Roads League of B.C. will hold its meeting one day ahead of the Municipal Union, in the same city, on October 17.

For several years there has also been held in conjunction with the gathering of municipal representatives, the sessions of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C.

Resolutions from cities and municipalities for the convention will be tabulated by a committee of which Alderman E. H. Bridgman, of North Vancouver, a former president, is chairman.

RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

Personnel of the resolutions committee is Mr. A. J. Pilkington, comptroller, Vancouver; Reeve J. A. Paton, Point Grey; Ald. J. B. Clearihue, Victoria; Reeve Poppy, Langley; Mr. J. A. Gordon, Revelstoke; Mr. R. F. Blandy, Oak Bay; Mayor McDonald, Penticton; Reeve J. W. Cornett, South Vancouver; Reeve J. W. Miller, Richmond; Mayor McDonald, Nelson; Councillor G. A. Tisdall, North Cowichan; Mayor Clark, Trail; Reeve Herbell, Salmon Arm; Reeve Reid, Surrey, president, and Mayor A. Wells Gray, New Westminster, secretary.

Legislation to impose a minimum income or special service tax to apply towards the cost of education and relieve the burden on land has not been passed following recommendations by the Union last year, and it is probable this will be one of the live issues at the forthcoming convention. It is understood some municipalities have already forwarded resolutions dealing with contributions to hospitals, while other districts are again asking for a revision of the penalty on

STABLE TARIFF IS ADVOCATED

SIR HENRY DRAYTON, FORMER FINANCE MINISTER, SPEAKS IN WINNIPEG

No One in East, He Says, Talks or Desires High Tariffs—Stability Required

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—Tariff stability for the promotion of industry and the development of the great West, is the urgent need of the Dominion at the present time, according to Sir Henry Drayton, former Minister of Finance, who arrived in the city today for the national Conservative convention. Sir Henry has been freely mentioned of late in connection with the leadership of the party.

"The West today, with the East, wants employment for its people; wants to keep them at home; wants, at least, to hold her natural increase, and requires really just what the East of today requires—tariff stability. Today no one in the East talks or desires high tariffs any more than people in the West do. Canada requires industry and development in the great West. Our work ought to be to see that she gets it," he said.

King Alfonso Visits Morocco With Queen

CEUTA, Spanish Morocco, Oct. 5.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, on their first peace-time visit to Morocco, camped today with the Foreign Legion at Dar Riffien, the guests of General Fransco, commander of the Legion. After a review the sovereigns returned to Ceuta.

Loot Found

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—Loot that required a furniture van and several automobiles to take away was discovered here tonight in the home of Arthur Zachariah, twenty-nine, City Light Department employee, asserted to be the so-called "cat-burglar" whose stealthy robberies of Seattle homes had baffled police for several moniha.

BEAUTY CONTEST AGAIN IN COURT

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—On the application of Reginald Symes, counsel for W. G. Murrin, George Kidd and J. W. Stewart, an order was made in Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Morrison compelling Velma Rogers to give particulars of her claim against them.

Miss Rogers sued the three defendants and sixty-seven other defendants, including the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, for damages for alleged breach of contract through her failure to attend a beauty contest as "Miss Vancouver" in Atlantic City. Messrs. Murrin, Kidd and Stewart were sued with others as patrons of a beauty carnival conducted under the auspices of the Legion.

"We don't know what it is all about yet," said Mr. Symes to the judge. F. R. McDiarmid, counsel for Miss Rogers, contended that the statement of claim contained all the necessary information.

His Lordship ordered plaintiff to give particulars of her allegations.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON IS NOT CANDIDATE

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—"Just a humble worker in the vineyard of the Conservative party," is what Sir Henry Drayton styled himself when asked today if he was a candidate for the leadership of the party. Sir Henry's name has been repeatedly mentioned as to be offered in nomination.

Sir Henry, who was Minister of Finance in the Meighen cabinet, declined to talk politics, and dismissed the topic of party leadership with the remark: "I think Hon. Howard Ferguson would make an excellent leader."

MRS. IDINGTON DIES IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Margaret Idington, aged eighty-one, wife of Mr. Justice Idington, died at her home here today after a lengthy illness. On the appointment of her husband to the Supreme Court of Canada twenty-one years ago, she moved with him to Ottawa and had lived here ever since.

She was born in Dundas, Ont., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Colcleigh.

Man Is Found Dead in House Of His Friend

Mr. Patrick Wilson was found dead by police at 856 Broughton Street last night. In response to a telephone call that came in from the house at 11:05 o'clock, Constable McPherson was sent to the house and there found Mr. Wilson lying dead. The circumstances surrounding his death are not known, although there did not seem to be any sign of foul play. Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart was notified and after he had seen the man and pronounced life extinct, ordered the body to be removed to Sands Funeral Parlor, where the inquest will be held. The house in which the man was found was that of a friend of his.

KING AND QUEEN BACK IN LONDON

CITY GETTING INTO AUTUMN STRIDE—LAW COURTS REOPENED

Harvesting in Yorkshire Badly Delayed by Continual Bad Weather

LONDON, Oct. 5.—With the return of King George and Queen Mary from Balmoral tomorrow London enters what is known as the "little season."

The King and Queen will remain at Buckingham Palace only until next week, when they go to Sandringham, until the end of the month. The Prince of Wales is expected to be in and around London practically throughout the Winter.

London generally is getting into its Autumnal stride. The courts open next week after the long Summer vacation to find a substantial increase in divorce cases. Of the 796 divorce actions listed, 620 are undefended. The total number of actions represents an increase of 300 as compared with those of the previous court term.

Harvesting in Yorkshire has been so badly delayed by perpetual bad weather that harvest festival services at Doncaster, the centre of a large agricultural area, have been postponed.

PARIS DETOURS VANZETTI CAR

Authorities Refuse Permission for Parade With Ashes—Car Diverted From City

CAEN, France, Oct. 5.—The special car containing the ashes of Bartolomeo Vanzetti, executed in Boston, was detached from the regular Cherbourg to Paris express here and diverted to Modane, on the Italian frontier, by way of Lyons in order that it should not pass through Paris. The journey was without incident.

Luigia Vanzetti, sister of Bartolomeo, who brought the ashes from America, arrived in Paris by automobile this afternoon and is staying at the home of friends in the suburbs.

The request of a Communist committee for permission for a procession in Paris, Sunday, with the ashes of the Boston "martyr" was refused by Acting Minister of Interior Barthou, although the committee argued it had as much right to parade as the American Legion.

Toronto Strike

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—Toronto's industrial war had not tonight extended beyond the 1,200 carpenters who went on strike this morning for wage increases and a union shop.

COUNCIL ADOPTS B.C. PROPOSALS

Request Presented for Amendment of B.N.A. Act to Permit Nomination of Women to Senate

BUDGET APPROVED FOR WIDER WORK

STRATFORD, Ont., Oct. 5.—The problems of finance were carried into the afternoon meeting today of the National Council of Women when the question of the budget was under discussion, the decision being made to sustain the budget for $100,000 in the interests of extension. Out of this decision came the resolution that the local council set aside one day in the year for raising allocations for the budget.

Miss Caroline Carmichael, of Ottawa, gave the report of the International Council of Women committees on laws and the legal position of women, coming out of the meeting at Geneva. A resolution from the International Council of Women evolved from the subjects discussed was endorsed by the committee. It was as follows:

"The I.C.W. desires that a woman lawyer be placed on the committee for the modification of the international law in order to represent women's interests in the discussion of all questions relating to women and children."

B. C. RESOLUTIONS

Mrs. Paul Smith, Vancouver, presented the resolutions that were proposed by the Provincial Council of British Columbia, and these were endorsed by the meeting. They are as follows:

"That the convener of laws be asked to make a survey of divorce laws, together with the practice and procedure in each province.

"And, further, to bring in a resolution for a just basis in the granting of alimony.

"That the National Council of Women do request the Dominion Government to grant the right to women to be appointed members of the Senate.

"That since a clause or clauses in the British North America Act appear to forbid or debar women from being so appointed, the National Council do request the Dominion Government to request the amendment of the clause or clauses or interpretations thereof in the British North America Act, so that equal right to sit as members of the Senate may be granted to women."

KING OF BULGARIA IS VISITING ITALY

ROME, Oct. 5.—The bachelor King Boris of Bulgaria is visiting Italy with a view to becoming engaged to the twenty-year-old Princes Giovanna, third daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, it is rumored here. There is no confirmation of the report in official circles.

McGILL BESTOWS AUTUMN HONORS

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—Autumn convocation at McGill University today was marked by the conferring of honorary degrees of LL.D. on a distinguished scientist from Scotland, in the person of Prof. J. Arthur Thompson, regius professor of natural history at the University of Aberdeen, and upon Sir Vincent Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal, and Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank.

Fall of Chinese Capital To Invaders From North Now Believed Imminent

Aviation and Heavy Artillery Units Are Sent to East Coast—Evacuation Regarded as Possibility — "Definite Nervousness" Develops—Censorship Imposed

Japan Considers Sending Troops From Manchuria to North China

PEKING, Oct. 5.—The possibility of Peking's fall before Shanshi Province troops increased gravely today with news that Paoting Fu, important city about eighty-five miles southwest of Peking, had been evacuated by the Manchurians. The capture of Paoting Fu by the Shanshi forces indicated that the Nationalist leaders had won a major victory.

The departure of the aviation and heavy artillery units of the Manchurians from Peking to Tientsin today, suggested the possibility here that the Manchurians may be planning evacuation of the capital. Definite nervousness has so developed that an overturn is possible.

The Associated Press correspondent in Peking cabled today indicating that he was restricted by censorship in Peking from disclosing the full significance of the military movements above mentioned. His message indicated that important developments affecting the fate of Peking were imminent.

TROOPS' MORALE FAILS

LONDON, Oct. 5. — The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent hears that Marshal Chang Tso-Lin's Manchurian troops are beginning to drift into Peking in an ominous state of discouragement after their defeat by Yen Hsi-Shan's Shansi Province army.

Meanwhile Feng Yu-Shiang, the "Christian General," as he was formerly styled, is understood to be ready to move northward against Peking in accordance with a plan to seize the capital, said to have been prepared by M. Borodin, Russian citizen, who was formerly adviser to the Hankow Nationalist regime.

The correspondent adds that Communist agitation is increasing in Shanghai, while the reorganized Red forces are again showing extreme activity to the south of Hankow.

JAPAN MAY INTERVENE

TOKIO, Oct. 5.—The Japanese Government is seriously considering the sending of troops from Manchuria to Peking and Tientsin if the situation in the Chinese civil war becomes worse, a spokesman for the Japanese War Office declared today. In the meantime, the Government is closely watching developments.

ZONING BY-LAW MEETS PROTEST

Owners of Property in Proposed Unrestricted Section of Oak Bay Petition Council

SOLICITOR HAS BEEN RETAINED

The Oak Bay Council has met with its first really important opposition to clauses in the newly-drafted zoning by-law. Under this by-law Block 6, Map 1250, or that area at the base of Gonzales Heights, overlooking the water toward Trial Island, is designated as an unrestricted area.

A petition has been sent to the council to have this amended. The petition is a result of representation made to the council by a delegation of property holders, headed by Mr. O. J. Boulton, solicitor for the parties concerned. The delegation was informed that it would have to present a formal petition, portions of which are printed below:

REASONS FOR ACTION

Among the reasons set out in the petition are: "The residential property in question is level, waterfront property commanding a magnificent view of the Straits and the Olympic Mountains, and everything possible

JAMAICA ASKS EARLY SERVICE

CANADA-WEST INDIES TREATY SAID NOT TO BE PROMPTLY FULFILLED

Dissatisfaction Excited by Delay in Providing New Steam Ships as Agreed Upon

"We understand His Excellency the Governor has sent confidential dispatches to the Canadian Government asking for information as to when it is their intention to put on the steamship service called for by the Canada-West Indies Treaty.

"Yesterday we published a statement by Hon. D. T. Wint to the effect that a member of the Canadian Government had said to him that he knew the C.P.R. service to carry the United Fruit Company's bananas to Canada would satisfy the requirements of this island as expressed in the treaty, and naturally public opinion here is much exercised over the question of whether the Dominion intends to put on the steamers called for by the treaty or whether she intends to substitute another service for this purpose.

"The whole question of the Canada-West Indies Treaty and delay in its fulfillment will, we understand, be brought up in the coming session of the Legislative Council, and it would not be surprising if this Government should determine to withdraw preferences now given to certain Canadian products until Canada responds by putting on the treaty ships."

OTTAWA COMMENT

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—The Minister of Trade and Commerce has not received a dispatch from the Governor of Jamaica asking for information as to when the steamship service called, for by the Canada-West Indies Treaty will be established. A dispatch from Kingston intimates that such a dispatch is being forwarded to the Dominion Government. It has already been announced that steps have been taken to satisfy Canada's part in the undertaking.

Tenders have been let for the construction of three ships to be used in the Canada-West Indies service, and these vessels will be available within a year or fifteen months.

Two other ships, it is understood, will be built for the service, but contracts for their construction have not been let as yet.

HAWAII GOVERNOR MAY GO TO MANILA

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 5.—Wallace R. Farrington, for the past six years governor of the territory of Hawaii, has been recommended to President Coolidge and Secretary of War Dwight W. Davis by United States Senator Hiram Bingham, to succeed the late General Leonard Wood as Governor of the Philippines, Senator Bingham said tonight in an interview to be published in The Hartford Courant tomorrow morning.

NATIONS MEET FOR RADIO LAW

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION IN WASHINGTON ORGANIZES FOR WORK

Fifty-Two Nations Represented—To Revise London Radio Convention of 1912

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Canada was elected vice-chairman of the committee of the whole by the International Radio Conference at the first business meeting today. The result will be that the senior Canadian delegate will be asked to preside over the convention meetings when Chairman Herbert Hoover cannot attend. This may happen often since Mr. Hoover is one of the busiest men in the United States Cabinet. Canada's senior delegate is Alex. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa. The four Canadian delegates will take part in deliberations of five of the ten committees which, during the next five weeks will revise the London Radio Convention of 1912.

The convention today adopted with nominal changes the draft rules submitted by Mr. Hoover. French, as the official language of diplomacy, was adopted as the official language of the convention, but English was admitted on equal basis.

There are fifty-two nations participating.

should be done to make practicable its development as a residential district.

"This district is overlooked by the Marine Drive, and any industrial plants, and especially any causing a lot smoke, on the said Block 6, would be an eyesore and mar what is now one of the finest panoramas to be found anywhere.

"Oak Bay's great asset is its scenery, especially that along the waterfront, and you have recently acquired a park on Gonzales Hill, known as Walbran Park, for the purpose of giving the public a viewpoint. Your proposed unrestricted area lies immediately below this and any industrial works there would create a nuisance, in the way of smoke, unsightly buildings, etc., which would defeat the very purpose for which you acquired and opened the park. Smoke and fumes from Block 6 would injuriously affect many of the fine residences on Gonzales Hill, and also the properties adjacent to Block 6.

SIGHT OF CAIRN

"At Walbran Park the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has erected a cairn commemorative of the exploration of the Straits; this is of interest both to residents and to tourists, and the district should be kept as attractive as possible.

"Anything in the nature of an industrial plant on Block 6 would be an eyesore, not only from land, but from the water.

"On general principles it is a mistake to mar waterfrontage by industrial sites unless there are harbor facilities, and the waterfrontage near Block 6 is entirely unsuitable for shipping.

"No material gain would accrue from leaving Block 6 unrestricted.

CHINESE CEMETERY

"Your petitioners are anxious to effect a removal of the Chinese cemetery, and note with approval that you propose to class it as part of a residential district. Your petitioners hope that as no repairs or alterations would be permitted it will fall into decay and ultimately be closed. However, if Block 6 is left unrestricted an opportunity will be given for the opening of a new Chinese cemetery thereon, which is something to be avoided if possible.

"If some area must be left unrestricted a much smaller area would meet all technical requirements, and such smaller area could be placed, say, to the west of the northern end of the Exhibition Grounds, or elsewhere, without injuriously affecting any large residential district, or one having real possibilities as such.

"Those of your petitioners who are owners of real estate in the district in question are desirous of developing the said district as a residential one, and look to the Oak Bay Municipal Council for support in their endeavor."

Victoria Welsh Society will hold its monthly meeting at Harmony Hall on Friday night. Refreshments will be served.

OWN MINES, BAN LORDS, SAYS LABOR

British Labor Party Conference Makes Nationalization of Mines Part of Programme to Be Presented

HOUSE OF LORDS HELD INCURABLE

Baldwin Reform Proposals Condemned — Resolution Passed for Complete Abolition of Chamber

BLACKPOOL, Eng., Oct. 5.—Nationalization of the British mining industry will be one of the main planks in the Labor party's programme in the next campaign.

"What we say is that if a Labor Government comes into office, it is going to take upon itself the duty of nationalizing the mines," former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the party, said today in moving the nationalizing resolution of the national Labor party's annual conference. After considerable debate the resolution was carried by a large majority.

LEADER SPEAKS

The resolution reaffirmed belief in the nationalization of the mines, development of coal treatment, and organization of distributive processes as essential to the prosperity of the industry and to the workers therein; called for the repeal of the Eight-Hour Day Act; the regulation of the supply of labor in the mining industry; for national provision—without recourse to the poor law and local rates—for the maintenance of unemployed miners; and for compulsory grouping and amalgamation of mines, and legislation to enable local authorities to undertake the sale of coal.

Mr. MacDonald was loudly cheered when he declared that if the Labor party came into office it would assume the duty of nationalizing the mines, and his speech was punctuated with cheers throughout. He said there were some good mine owners, but taking them in the bulk there was no body of employers in the country that had observed the plain, simple, undiluted economic relations between dominant capital and subordinate labor with more hard tyranny than the mine owners.

HOUSE OF LORDS

The exhilarating spectacle of a peer denouncing his own legislative chamber in good set terms was presented at the Labor party conference here last night by Lord Arnold, who as Sidney Arnold was a Liberal member of the House of Commons for some time. He went over to the Labor party in 1922 and was Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies in the late Labor Government in 1924, and was created a peer the same year.

"The House of Lords will never give the Labor party a fair chance because it is blind to the signs of the times," Lord Arnold declared. "It is callous, inconsistent, insensible, selfish, cynical, obstructive, unscrupulous and utterly reactionary."

These sentiments were expressed by the Labor peer while he was seconding a resolution condemning the Baldwin Government for its proposals for the reform of the House of Lords and urging the complete abolition of the Upper House.

The resolution was carried.

Shriners to Build Hospital on Coast

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—Mayor K. W. Freeland Kendrick, of Philadelphia, founder, with his wife, of Shriners' hospitals throughout the United States and Canada, said in an interview here today that another Shriners' hospital would be erected somewhere on the Canadian Pacific Coast in the near future. Victoria or Vancouver are the possible sites.

Sick Benefits Rated By Regular Earnings

HULL, Eng., Oct. 5.—Hull is a place where, from the wage standpoint, more time can be made when ill than when at work. The superannuation committee of the Hull Corporation has so ruled.

The ruling came on claims made by local tramway men, who demanded sick benefits on the basis of a forty-eight-hour week. Local tramway men now are working forty hours a week because of the retention of general strike volunteers, and their wages accordingly were reduced. The superannuation committee has decided that as acceptance of short time work was a temporary expedient, the corporation was not relieved of the responsibility of paying benefits guaranteed by the national joint industrial council.

Fined for Giving Too Good Measure

ISLINGTON, England, Oct. 5.—Many a man has been fined for giving short weight or short measure, but Alfred W. Howell, a saloonkeeper here, has had to pay ten shillings for giving one pint and one gill of beer to a customer who asked for a pint. Howell's competitors complained, and the magistrate found he had offended against the Licensing Act of 1921.

May Be Bandit

CALGARY, Oct. 5.—With the discovery of a bullet wound high up in the right arm of Helge Schmidt, a Dane, who has been under arrest for two days on suspicion of being connected with the attempted holdup of the Hillhurst branch of the Royal Bank of Canada last week, city police officers stated this afternoon they are positive they have landed the bandits.

TAX PENALTIES

One live issue is made the subject of a motion from Duncan Council, reaffirming the stand of the municipalities against all attempts at departing from the present system of a penalty of 15 per cent for non-payment of taxes by the due date.

One subject which formerly occasioned warm discussion at the meetings, and which caused much turmoil afterwards in political circles, is with regard to the establishment of a public service commission, to be a court of appeal between the municipal council and the public service corporations in points of dispute.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

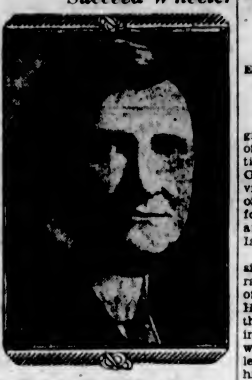
Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good druggist; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. (Advt.)

Militant Minister to Succeed Wheeler



REV. F. SCOTT McBRIDE, B.S., D.D.

Wayne B. Wheeler's mantle has fallen for the moment at least, upon the Rev. F. Scott McBride, B.S., D.D., shown here, a militant Scotch Presbyterian from Carroll County, Ohio, and the most distinguished alumnus of Muskingum College. It is not exactly a promotion for Mr. McBride. Technically, as general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, he was Mr. Wheeler's boss. But actually, during his three years as field marshal of the drys, he was obscured by the accumulated glory of the veteran scourge of wet legislators.

FRANCE DESIRES PROMPT CHANGE

French Ambassador at Moscow Instructed to Request Recall of Rakovsky From Paris

PARIS, Oct. 5.—M. Briand, the Foreign Minister, sent instructions tonight to Jean Herbette, French Ambassador at Moscow, to inform the authorities that the French Government no longer considered Christian Rakovsky persona grata and desired that a new Soviet Ambassador be sent to Paris.

The recall of M. Rakovsky, Soviet Ambassador to France, by the Moscow Government, has been expected for several days. Owing to the delay and because of reported interviews which the French Minister was having with Maxim Litvinoff, Vice-Foreign Minister at Moscow, the French Government decided to press its wish for the appointment of a new Soviet Ambassador.

Rakovsky has been charged with having advocated a revolution by the workers of the world and with inciting the troops to rise against all capitalistic governments.

The French Cabinet at a meeting at Rambouillet a few days ago decided to request Moscow to appoint a new Ambassador but disclaiming any desire for a break with Russia.

CONSERVATION OF WOMAN POWER ON FARM BIG QUESTION

OAKLAND, Neb., Oct. 5.—A Nebraska farm woman, with plumbing facilities available at her very door, carries water 400 feet for the family washing—200 feet from the well to the house for the purpose of heating it and 200 feet back to the wash house by the well.

This is one of a number of findings made to the people of Nebraska through the home equipment survey, which the General Federation of Women's Clubs has just completed. Nebraska was the first State to complete its survey. It was also the first to get under way the campaign for the improvement of conditions and the raising of standards of living within the State.

Mrs. William E. Minier, of Oakland, president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs, is the moving spirit in Nebraska's campaign for better homes. She has developed a programme into which she has drawn co-operation and assistance from public utilities companies, the State Agricultural College and other institutions and organizations.

"The day is at hand," said Mrs. Minier, "when the conservation of womanpower will become as vital a consideration as the piping of water to the chicken yard, the hog lot and the barn."

Dobbin, flying from Penticton to Vancouver, came down in the Fraser River here at 2:40 p.m. The Vancouver aviator, who has been engaged in forestry work, passed here at 2:25 o'clock, but returned when he encountered fog in the Fraser Canyon. He is accompanied by his brother, Clarence Dobbin, machinist.

He is survived by his widow and four children.

LOCAL ARTIST'S WORK ON VIEW

Exhibition of Paintings by Mr. Thomas Bamford Now Showing at Crystal Garden

Following up their principle of giving local artists an opportunity of showing their work from time to time, the Art Gallery at the Crystal Garden has this week placed on view a collection of water-color and oil paintings by Mr. Thomas Bamford, one of the charter members and a former president of the Island Arts and Crafts Society.

Mr. Bamford's exhibition runs to sixty-three pictures, within the range of which a surprising wealth of subject matter is discovered. He shows good draughtsmanship throughout and an almost invariable instinct for composition, so that his work is always pleasing. Nevertheless one will concede that he excels himself when he uses oils as a medium of expression, and if one is making a cursory search for the most striking things the eye will almost certainly first fall on the little group of framed pictures depicting scenes in and about the Cowichan Bay, Cowichan River and Cowichan River country, which seem to be the themes which he had chosen for portraying in oils. Among the outstandingly pleasing things in this group is No. 55, "Evening, Cowichan Lake," which is so characteristic in its coloring, cloud effects, and atmosphere that anyone familiar with this part of the Island must certainly recognize it immediately. In subdued tones, it shows the purple silhouette of mountain against a saffron-gold sky, both sky and mountain reflected in the lake. Just as characteristic, yet of quite different character, is "Indian Reserve, Cowichan Bay" (No. 58), with its busy beach, and "Cowichan River" (No. 56). The clouds in the last two pictures are especially clever details.

Among the water-colors there should be specially noted No. 5, "The Sawmill," which is one of the familiar bits of the waterside at Esquimalt. The work has photographic realism, but much more besides, the jets of steam and smoke giving an air of activity and life, and the coloring being so admirably handled that a sense of four-square dimension is conveyed. "The Straits" (No. 10), an excellent composition introducing shore and tidal waters, depicts the rich coloring of rocks and gorse-coated cliff on one side, and wind-moved sea on the other. The lighting is effective, subdued yet clear, as on a cloudy afternoon. No. 15, "Shore Sands, Tynemouth," is one of a series of interesting Old Country scenes, very happy both as to subject and composition, showing a great bluff with flat pinkish-yellow sands spread about its feet, and children reflected in the shallow pools left by the retreating tide. Something of the Old World atmosphere is introduced in No. 20, a picture of Victoria Harbor which gives a kindly human expression to the shouldering, companionable houses, and to wharves, boats and birds. Among the other pictures which should be specially noted are No. 50, "Beacon Hill Coast," showing a moving greenish sea with rocky shore at the left; No. 52, "The Straits, Esquimalt," and No. 54, "Mt. Baker From the Uplands," the snowy peak showing over a foreground of rounded rocks.

A set of garden pictures, Nos. 27 and 29, "The Park Nursery"; No. 31, "Empress Garden"; No. 32, "Victoria Bungalow"; No. 33, "The Rose Arch"; No. 30, "A Formal Garden," and Nos. 34 and 41, show the artist's fondness and appreciation of flowers. Nos. 44 and 46 are of old thatched cottages, in Devonshire; and there are two pictures, at least, of churches, which show a love of the architectural, viz., No. 43, "Glimpse of Victoria," introducing the old Christ Church Cathedral on the hill, and No. 45, "Autumn."

OWNER OF BUILDING HELD RESPONSIBLE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—Opening arguments of an appeal of R. Pearce against $500 damages for injuries awarded Elizabeth Fraser when she fell from the back porch of his house, were heard by the Court of Appeal this afternoon.

Counsel for Pearce explained Mrs. Fraser had leaned against a defective railing on the porch, but contended the house was rented to a tenant and the owner, Pearce, knew nothing of the defect. He claimed, therefore, the tenant was responsible.

Judgment was awarded by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in Supreme Court when a jury stated the owner should have known of the defective railing.

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father did my work for me as I have two children and we have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Eaton's and got me a bottle, and then we got more from the store. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out around more. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. VICTOR RICHARDSON, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Better-Class Women Use

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

ONE of the commonest obstacles to the average woman's peace-of-mind was the old-time "sanitary pad." Uncertain and unsafe, it has now been supplanted with scientific protection that is absolute.

With the amazing absorbency of 16 times its own weight in moisture, KOTEX, the new way, is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad. It is the only sanitary pad filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent.

Also, it deodorizes while it acts. Also—it discards easily as tissue. No laundry, no disposal embarrassment. Obtain at any store. 12 in a box.

Note particularly that the package is marked KOTEX. If not, don't accept — it is not genuine Kotex.

COLONEL FLICK WINS FIRE SUIT IN APPEAL COURT

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—On a retrial in Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Morrison has dismissed an action by the Attorney-General of British Columbia and the Minister of Lands to recover $1,803 from Colonel Charles Flick, of Mayne Island.

The claim comprised expenses incurred by the Forest Branch in fighting a bush fire on Galiano Island in June, 1926.

In default of appearance by defendant, Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, on September 13, awarded the plaintiff Attorney-General judgment for the claim. Subsequently, however, Colonel Flick was successful in arranging for a rehearing after he had explained that he was in the courthouse on the day of trial and through a mistake waited in the wrong room.

THEATRE PLAN IS ADVOCATED

Chairman of Governors of Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, Stratford, Is Coming Here

MR. FLOWER IS MAYOR OF TOWN

Mr. Archibald Flower, who will visit Victoria early next month, in the course of a tour of Canada and the United States, which has as its chief purpose the enlisting of support for the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, is one of a family whose members have lived for many years and have long devoted themselves to upholding the best traditions of Shakespeare by promoting the public performance of his plays. No financial profit has been made or attempted, their work being entirely a labor of love.

It was the uncle of Mr. Archibald Flower who built with his own private money the Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, which was destroyed by fire last year, says The Montreal Gazette. It was known to visitors from all parts of the world as the shrine of the Shakespeare tradition and the actual stage of great festival performances each year, lasting two months. Tens of thousands of Canadians and Americans have visited the theatre during the Spring and Summer festivals, and they appreciate fully its educational and recreational work as of world value.

Mr. Archibald Flower is chairman of the governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. During six years he has been mayor of Shakespeare's native town. He is chairman of the governors of Shakespeare's school at Stratford, and on the death of Sir Sidney Lee was elected chairman of the trustees and guardians of Shakespeare's birthplace, with most responsible duties in the custody of the various Shakespeare shrines.

Mr. Flower took his degree at Cambridge as M.A., rowed in the Cambridge eight in 1886, and has played polo for Warwickshire. He comes to America at the invitation of many friends and will be accompanied by Mrs. Flower, who like her husband, has worked unceasingly and unselfishly for the cause of Shakespeare and his immortal work.

At the beautiful home of the Flowers in Stratford-on-Avon many notable visitors have been entertained, including H. W. Longfellow and family, General Sherman, General Grant, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Miss Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Clemens (Mark Twain), Oliver Wendell Holmes; Ambassadors Bayard, Page, Whitelaw Reid, John D. Davis; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover and a host of others, including some of the most notable men in the English "Who's Who," besides ambassadors and distinguished personages from many foreign countries.

WORTHY MEMORIAL PLANNED

In the theatre which was burned on March 6, 1926, for fifty years the memory of Shakespeare had been honored in the best and truest way possible, namely, by presenting his plays publicly on the stage.

Sir Frank Benson, who took charge of the festival memorial performances at Stratford at a time when the Shakespeare plays in the Spring and Summer were produced with no idea of financial profit, fittingly describes the Stratford stage as the "godparent and helpful friend of Shakespearean performances in all parts of the world," and as working in hearty co-operation with Shakespearean societies everywhere to make the poet's birthplace "the English Bayreuth."

Admittedly the vanished building was not a triumph of architecture. With the tightest packing it would not seat a thousand persons, and its stage could by no means possibly "hold the vasty fields" of any play. Yet it did great work and it has left a high standard of achievement.

Now it is proposed to build and endow a new theatre for Stratford worthy to be a memorial to Shakespeare. If this hope is realized through the hearty support of English-speaking peoples, and a new and better Memorial Theatre, with greater capacity and organization for service arises phoenix-like from the ashes and ruins which now disfigure the beautiful town on the Avon, Shakespeare's words will be fittingly illustrated:

"Sweet are the uses of adversity
Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head."

The first steps to raise the necessary funds, estimated at £25,000, have already been taken. At the instance of Mr. Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain; Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald, and the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, two former Prime Ministers, and Thomas Hardy, the dean of contemporary literature, an appeal has been made to the English-speaking peoples everywhere, and a special fund was started by The Daily Telegraph of London on March 25, with which the various leading newspapers in the Britains beyond the seas are co-operating. The Daily Telegraph headed the donations with a gift of £1,000, and is daily printing the list of all subscribers.

BERNARD SHAW'S APPROVAL

George Bernard Shaw, in a letter favoring reconstruction of the Stratford Memorial Theatre, and incidentally enclosing £200, expresses surprise that he should have been misrepresented as disparaging replacement of the building at Stratford and advancing London's claims against it.

"I cannot account for the misunderstanding," he says. "I have been feverishly ill but I really cannot have raved to this extent. As to saying that Stratford is an uninteresting town, I have frequented it so devotedly for many years past that I have come to regard it almost as my birthplace.

"The old building though hopeless internally for theatrical purposes, was by no means unpresentable in its copied way of architecture of the mid-nineteenth century. To leave its smoky ruin as it is now would be a disgrace.

"Local patriotism has given what it can, but the town is too small to carry its giant on its own shoulders. It can cater to pilgrims and maintain the pleasant spaciousness of its streets and riverside, but this and the replacement of the present incongruous town hall with a more suitable one is as much as it can afford, and more should not be expected from it. The case for a general subscription from the whole English-speaking world is irresistible."

ONLY ROYAL CHARTER

The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre is the only theatre in Great Britain incorporated under Royal Charter, after careful study by the Privy Council. His Majesty the King has consented to be the patron, and Viscount Burnham is president. Control is vested in a governing body which annually appoints an executive council of twenty members. All contributors of not less than £100 to the fund are eligible as governors. All funds or property can only be used to further the objects enumerated in the charter. The governors have appointed the following advisory council for the purpose of advising upon the expenditure of the fund: Sir James Barrie, Sir Charles Holmes (director of the National Gallery), the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, H. Granville Barker and E. Guy Dawber (president of the R.I.B.A.).

An influential committee, headed by Hon. Elihu Root, former Secretary of State; Hon. Charles Evans Hughes, Hon. Robert Lansing and Hon. Frank L. Polk, former Secretary of State; Hon. James M. Beck, former Solicitor-General of the United States, and Hon. John W. Davis, president of the English-Speaking Union, and including two score of the most distinguished citizens of the United States, has been formed to raise the American portion of the fund. It is the belief of Mr. Fowler and the British committee that the people of Canada also will welcome the opportunity to have a share in a project which has as its end the paying of a worthy tribute to the matchless poet, whose fame and whose works are the common heritage of the British Empire and the English-speaking world.

OWEN NEWTON ADMITS GUILT

Youth Confesses He Raised Cheque From $9 to $900—Magistrate Jay to Pass Sentence Today

Owen Newton pleaded guilty when he appeared in the city police court yesterday, to raising a cheque from $9 to $900, and attempting to cash it on September 28, at the Bank of Montreal. Newton was arrested by Chief of Police John Fry, and Detectives Marcus Phipps and William Stark.

City Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison outlined the circumstances of the case to Magistrate George Jay, and stated it was his duty to tell His Honor that Newton had been previously convicted for distributing immoral pictures.

Mr. Joseph B. Clearihue, who appeared as counsel for the accused, said that Newton, who had made a complete confession to him of his guilt, could make no apology for the crime, nor would he attempt to do so. Counsel pointed out that Newton was a young man of twenty-one years of age, and he expressed the hope that some leniency could be exercised in Newton's case.

After hearing address by counsel, Magistrate Jay said that he would adjourn the case until this morning for consideration.

U.S. QUOTA LAW HIGHLY PRAISED

LEVEL OF WAGES IS MAINTAINED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—America's chiefs of labor, champions of more drastic immigration laws, heard from the lips of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis yesterday, the statement that the present restrictive law was the greatest piece of legislation enacted in fifty years.

The cabinet officer, addressing the convention of the American Federation of Labor, declared that the present scale of wages prevailing in American industries—the highest in history—would have been impossible without it.

Secretary Davis reviewed for the 379 delegates from every state in the Union, Canada, Mexico, Great Britain, and other countries, the world situation concerning raw materials and labor conditions.

Never before, he told them, had American industry been so free from strife as it was today. "We have in America only one serious labor controversy, and that will always exist as long as the coal industry remains in its present condition.

Other high lights of the Secretary's address were punctuated with the following sentences:

"We long ago learned that there is no essential conflict between capital and labor."

"An industrial plant is fine for any community if it pays good wages—wages high enough to supply the wage-earner's wants."

"No industry that does not set aside reserves for its future, no industry that pays poor wages, that is nothing but a machine for grinding out dividends for its owners, deserves anything of those who live within its shadow. It is not a benefaction, but a curse."

Secretary Davis brought the "whole-hearted greetings" of President Coolidge to the convention.

"How you bachelors get any enjoyment out of life is more than I can see," remarked Mrs. De Style.

"That's easy," was the reply. "We just look at the expensive clothes you married women wear, and then congratulate ourselves that we don't have to pay for them."

John Oliver.

For the Government Hon. A. M. Manson, the Attorney-General, is on the ground in the interior city taking charge of the campaign.

It is anticipated that before the conclusion of the contest in Nelson there will be many of the provincial politicians on both sides taking a part in the speaking campaign. The fact that the riding is a compact one, embracing little area outside of the city of Nelson itself, will simplify the matter of meetings. There will not be the necessity for holding a number of meetings each evening, as is required where the constituency is a scattered one. The meetings held in Nelson itself will practically reach all the voters.

Mr. W. A. McKenzie, M.P.P., Conservative member for Similkameen, spent some days in the riding before the election was set, and is expected to return to the district shortly. Mr. R. H. Pooley, the House leader of the party, will also leave for the Interior at an early date to lend his aid. Other speakers will be going into the riding from time to time as the contest continues.

Premier MacLean is not expecting again to visit Nelson to assist in the speaking until towards the end of the campaign. The other members of the Cabinet as required will visit the riding and lend aid.

CHILDREN NEED this FOOD

it sustains them

TOO many little folks spend forenoons in school without sufficient nourishment. Teachers notice it. The children are listless, nervous, irritable. Can't do their lessons—forenoons wasted.

Why? Not enough real food for breakfast. Often in too big a hurry to eat.

Children who are given hot Quaker Oats and milk, have the food that "stands by" them during morning hours. They are eager, energetic, alert both in work and play. They get the protein to build bone and muscle, the carbohydrates to produce energy, the vitamines and bulk to assist digestion.

Nowhere else can your children get so much nourishment for so little—costs but a cent a meal. A dish of Quaker Oats and milk daily provides a quarter of the protein needed for a growing child.

If you want speedy cooking, get Quick Quaker. It cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes. Same superiority of quality, same flavour and same nourishment as in the Quaker Oats you have always known.

QUAKER OATS — you have always known.

QUICK QUAKER — cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes.

POLITICAL DISLOYALTY

Reports are reaching us through reliable sources which do not indicate harmony in local Conservative circles. Were these reports mere rumors no credence would be attached to them, but they come from quarters which must be fully informed, from men who hold important positions in the Conservative Party and those in whom the public have confidence. Since the reports must be credited it becomes a duty to the Party and to the Party leader, Dr. S. F. Tolmie, to proffer some advice to those most interested. It is axiomatic to point out that dissension in any undertaking does not lead to results; neither do differences within the rank and file of the local organization or the political party lend themselves to any good purpose.

The main point of contention appears to be statements in circulation regarding the leadership of the Conservative Party in provincial affairs. There are statements being made tending to cast reflections upon Dr. Tolmie and insinuations are bruited abroad purposed to detract from the leader's strength and position. This is unfair, to say the least, on the part of anyone within the Conservative Party, inasmuch as the Liberals can safely be depended upon to spread propaganda of this character since it helps their cause. What should be borne in mind regarding these statements and insinuations is that Dr. Tolmie did not seek the position he now occupies. He has not been an office-seeker. Circumstances and a unanimous demand led to his allowing his name to go before the Kamloops Convention. There were no conditions attached to his leadership and he accepted the leadership because he was persuaded that it was seeking him. It should be clearly understood that Dr. Tolmie is the Provincial Conservative leader and will remain as such. The political organization, collectively or individually, not in accord with his leadership will not be recognized by the Conservative Party of British Columbia, unless that Party, as a united body, asks Dr. Tolmie for his resignation.

The reports that have been in circulation affecting Mr. W. J. Bowser are not in accordance with the latter's statements during the Kamloops Convention. His position there was specific and convincing. He explained that position, and then went on to say that as an old Party man he did not want his name to go down with any stigma that he had done anything to disrupt the Party. "I must therefore retire from the position of one seeking to be your leader. It is in the best interests of the Party that I should do so: it is better for the unity of the Party. This, then, is my political valedictory. For thirty-five years I have mingled in political turmoil. I am now disappearing out of the picture, but you cannot rob me of the strong personal friendships I have made, and which I will always treasure. I have many political enemies, but I hope none of a personal nature. In saying 'good-bye' to you I will always remember these relationships, which I hope will go on uninterrupted for many long years. I will never forget the loyalty of those friends. I will always remember them until time shall be no more."

From the foregoing one can argue the impossibility of Mr. Bowser betraying his Party or his leader. No man could adopt such a course and retain his self-respect. Mr. Bowser spoke as we have quoted him knowing that his retirement from provincial politics was for the good of his Party, and in his retirement he was willing, and we believe still is, that Dr. Tolmie should be given every possible assistance and a clean field. Under the circumstances we have noted it becomes the obvious duty of the Conservative Party here to bury all its differences and reorganize on sound and sane lines. The local Liberal Association found it necessary to do so, and if Victoria is to escape machine politics the same course must be adopted by the Conservatives. An immediate housecleaning is desirable and the local association might just as well know that any other procedure, or the perpetuation of the present conditions, will not be tolerated by the Conservatives of this city.

BRITAIN'S LOW DEATH RATE

The year 1926 was the healthiest in the history of Britain the death-rate being only 11.6 per 1,000. This is a comfortable offset to the low birth-rate of 17.8 per 1,000 or the lowest on record except of the war years. Per 1,000 deaths the chief causes were: heart and circulation, 188; bronchitis, pneumonia and other respiratory diseases, 150; cancer, 117; diseases of the nervous system, 103; all forms of tuberculosis, 82. The foregoing five conditions were the main causes of death. On the other hand the pestilences of a former day, such as smallpox, typhus, typhoid, ague, plague and cholera have, to an extent, been defeated by medical science, although smallpox recurred in Britain to an extent which caused some alarm last year. That disease is described by Sir George Newman, the Chief Medical Officer of the Ministry of Health, as regaining lost ground. Of it he says:

"Our duty in the presence of mallpox is not to waste precious time debating its modifications but to rid the country of it. It is true that it was mild in degree and had, fortunately, a low mortality. But in certain districts it has been allowed to become a scourge, whilst in other similar districts invaded it has been stamped out. This experience shows that we can control this disease when we are determined to do so. This being so, I am bound to add that it would be discreditable to the public health administration of the country and the practical common sense of the people if the disease were allowed to become more prevalent." In Britain there were 10,146 smallpox cases notified during 1926, and of these Durham accounted for 6,645 cases. In Durham there are very strong objections entertained to vaccination.

DIET AND HEALTH

Sir James Crichton-Browne has issued an historical warning on the dangers of the dieting craze which is sweeping the world. He says that there is scarcely any commodity in which grocers deal, except butter and eggs, "which is not from time to time made the subject of suspicion and vituperation by the hypochondriacs who pour forth their digestive troubles, and the presumptuous wiseacres who, knowing nothing about the subject, are always telling them what to eat, drink and avoid." He quotes the case of Lord Byron, who, fearing he would become fat, on the advice of some quack, so dieted himself that he induced melancholy and debility from which he died. His sustenance consisted of a thin slice of bread with a cup of tea at breakfast; a light vegetable dinner with a bottle of seltzer water tinged with white wine, and in the evening a cup of green tea without milk or sugar formed his whole sustenance. Sir James tells of how Byron assuaged the pangs of hunger by chewing tobacco, and he died at thirty-six. "Had he taken his food like a man," says Sir James, "he might have lived for many years to enrich our literature with treasures even more precious than 'Childe Harold.'"

The "safe and wholesome course" which Sir James recommends, is to take plenty of good, wholesome, varied, mixed diet. This practice, he says, has behind it the instincts, traditions and experience of countless generations of ancestors. He characterizes the denunciation of preserved foods as sheer nonsense and points to the fact that during the last half century there has been an enormous increase in the use of these preserved and canned foods, and during the same period there has been an enormous increase in the standard of national nutrition.

The excessive penalties which governments—Federal, Provincial and municipal—impose on taxes in arrears are an incentive to money-lenders to charge high rates of interest. Governments are veritable Shylocks in demanding their pounds of flesh, and yet their budgets never show any provision in estimates for the amounts they wrest out of the people by penalties and interest charges. These accumulations to revenues should be set forth in respect to any and every tax so that people will have a full appreciation of the extent to which the penalty overshadows the "crime" of inability to pay taxes at the time when they become due.

Words of Wisdom

The fundamental bond of human relationship and social cohesion is the dependence of the weak upon the strong. Obedience is given on the one hand, protection on the other.—Dr. Stephen Leacock.

Man is arrogant in proportion to his ignorance; his natural tendency is to egotism; in his infancy of knowledge, he thinks that all creation was formed for him.—Bulwer Lytton.

Modesty is the appendage of sobriety, and is to chastity, to temperance, and to humility, as the fringes are to a garment.—Jeremy Taylor.

It is hard for a strong-willed man to bow down to a weak-willed man. It is hard for an elephant to say his prayers to an ant.—Henry Ward Beecher.

We sometimes learn more from the sight of evil than from an example of good; and it is well to accustom ourselves to profit by the evil which is so common, while that which is good is so rare.—Pascal.

Duty is a power that rises with us in the morning and goes to rest with us at night. It is co-extensive with the action of our intelligence. It is the shadow that cleaves to us, go where we will.—W. E. Gladstone.

LAMP-POSTS

London lamp-posts afford an interesting study to people who stop to look at them. Most of us do not. In my walks lately, however, I have been struck by their endless variety (remarks a London Daily Chronicle writer).

Some lamp-posts are plain, some fluted, some with quite ornate embellishments, and the colors are equally varied and often distinctive of districts. There are many special points.

Those on the Embankment have encircling dolphins. St. Martin's Parish lamp-posts bear a little relief illustrating the legend of St. Martin bestowing his cloak on the beggar, and many have the arms of their particular boroughs—Paddington, for example, with the archaic crown and crossed swords.

From the immense electric standard to the humble suburban gas lamp, London lamp-posts are a strangely assorted family, worth somebody's particular study.

STONES AS ORNAMENTS

The passion for big stones as ornaments this season is by no means confined to the pendant or the shoulder ornament. On the contrary, the big stone, in its various colorings, appears on the front of hats, and it is also used for shoe buckles. Shoes are made very plain in order to carry off the decoration of a huge amethyst or topaz, or its equivalent (says The Manchester Guardian). Shoes still differ from the color of the dress, but the stone set upon them generally matches the dress, with rather interesting effect. Very often the stones are made in glass, and this has led to a revival of the glass buckle and the glass jewel for shoes. Squares or rectangles of glass, cut very thick, have upon them either a raised design of a bird or a flower, or this design is cut into the glass, looking rather like a mould. Black satin shoes look very well with glass buckles, and some of them have what looks like a Koh-i-noor upon the toes. Glass is also used to some extent upon watch bracelets, generally in the form of a clasp.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

There are people in the world (quite a number of them in Victoria) who publicly proclaim the fact that they take no interest whatever in politics. And those people appear to believe that their proclamation that they take no interest whatever in politics proclaims them as a superior people. Nevertheless everybody should take a deep interest in politics, not only for patriotic reasons, but because the ways of politics and the wiles and the guiles of politicians are worth watching and studying. And in making such an assertion no reference to Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King or to the other political leaders of Canada is intended. The Premier of Canada has no sense of humor whatever.

* * *

There is not a political situation in the world today that is not intensely humorous in some of its aspects. Could there be anything more humorous, for example, than the protests of the politicians of the United States against the decision of the politicians of France to increase the duties on certain American exports to France? If there is any important article of commerce that can get into the United States without payment of a heavy duty, the politicians of the United States have temporarily overlooked that article, and if they have temporarily overlooked it they certainly will deal with it at the next session of Congress, provided the executive has not power to attend to it without Congressional action.

* * *

Another humorous feature of the international political situation is the child-like and bland assumption of the convinced and convicted Free Traders of the world that Protection has finished its course and that a general reduction of tariffs is impending. The League of Nations Congress, the World Court of that Congress, or some of the numerous auxiliary bodies of that Congress, has been discussing world reciprocity and declaring that there must be a general reduction of tariffs, and that if there be not such a general reduction of tariffs there must be general business chaos and world ruin. The Government of Australia raised its protective duties a few days ago, the United States will not reduce its protective duties, and the general tendency among the nations of the world is to increase rather than to reduce duties.

* * *

But the most humorous feature of the world political situation is the announcement that the protective policy of Canada is to be brought before one of the world courts of limited jurisdiction by the United States, which is not affiliated with the League of Nations. The world court of limited jurisdiction is going to be asked by representatives of the United States to inquire what some of the Provinces of Canada mean by placing embargos on the export of raw materials. If Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King is asked to answer such a question as that we know what he will think if he has even a limited sense of humor. He will think that for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the heathen Chinee is not singular in his peculiarities.

* * *

In these days of triumphant democracy there is hardly a country in the world that is not attempting to deal with an intensely humorous political situation. Mexico is in the throes of a hot political campaign, and the Mexicans are conducting the conflict for democratic supremacy in a characteristically Latin way. The Mexican campaign is being conducted with bullets, not with ballots.

* * *

Turn to the political situation in China, and make something out of that situation if you can. A few weeks ago the champions of sublime democratic principles warned everybody that the hands of reactionary Imperialism must be kept off China, that the patriotic people of China were engaged in a conflict for the establishment of the sublime principles of democracy and self-government. Nobody could tell then, and nobody can tell now, whether the Northern army or the Southern army was or is the patriotic army; but everybody who had any knowledge of the actual situation knew that the campaign in China was not a National or a patriotic struggle at all, but a fight to despoil the foreigner and divide the loot.

* * *

The humor of the tragic "political" situation in China was this: that the situation was represented as a struggle for the supremacy of the "peasants" and the "workers" over the foreign privileged classes, who had seised power and were oppressing the masses. After victory had been achieved the land of China was to be divided amongst the peasants, who already were in complete possession of the land. All the trouble and strife and bloodshed in China was the work of the Internationalists of Russia, commonly called the Bolshevists. The Liberals and the Laborites of Great Britain and the Liberals of Canada who shouted that hands must be kept off China probably have seen the reality if not the humor of the situation, for they have ceased their shouting, and probably have decided that it might have been better for China if some strong but kind hand had been laid upon her.

* * *

Turkey, for centuries an autocratically or theocratically governed country, is now a democratically governed country. The new Government of Turkey has just issued an order which proves that it is a real and true democracy. It has ordered that all dogs and cats in the country shall be inspected. If there are animals or persons to be inspected, there must, of course, be officials to inspect them. In every democratically-governed country, if there are not enough offices to meet the demand for Government positions, offices must be created to meet the popular demand. There are humorous features in every political situation.

"CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND"

Sir,—I was much interested in letters published recently in your columns which penetrates as far as the Old Country, from Mr. R. P. Matheson and Mrs. Sarah Brook, relating to a lecture delivered by a Mr. Kenneth Lindsay, B.A., on the conditions in England, and I agree entirely with all Mr. Matheson writes. It is wrong to misrepresent things and to sneer at all things British. It is the prerogative of the Britishers to belittle their own country. He is altogether a different type to the Yankee. The Britisher would be ashamed to boost everything British, as per the Yank, but he has a deep love for his country, for the old customs of his native land and for everything British, nevertheless. We are everyone of us proud at heart of our own country—this dear little island home of ours, "Set amid the Silver Sea."

We are proud of its history, of its past glorious achievements, of all those splendid ancestors of ours who have gone before us, and who made those achievements possible. It is with feelings of reverence and of humility, too, that we who inherit this "precious gem" may prove ourselves worthy sons and daughters of those who in the past have created this glorious heritage for us—the envy and pride of the whole world.

"God who made thee mighty, make thee mightier yet."

The Ambassador of the United States, Mr. Nelson Page, writing to President Wilson from England during the war, said: "Thank God that you and I come of this stock," and it is of this stock the learned B.A. sneers. It was the same spirit, the same stupid misunderstanding of the British nation by Germany, who entertained the same delusions as the learned B.A., that we were a decadent nation who had lost its strength and its vigor, that made her throw down the gage to England. She was wrong, but it was through men like the B.A. of the University of B.C. that she came to believe that England could not and would not fight.

It is a great pity that even lecturers and B.A.'s do not take the greatest of care to ascertain the facts. His remarks about the statesmen of Britain show his lack of knowledge of both Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and also Mr. Stanley Baldwin. About the farmers of England he stands confounded by the recent report of the visit of South African farmers and agriculturists to this country who praised the methods of our farmers. With regard to the industrial progress of Great Britain, we should be glad of his assistance. It is easy to criticize thousands of miles away. The truth is, we are steadily—slowly but surely—regaining our lost trade. The great coal trade is in a bad way, but that is due to the stupid strike and to causes over which we have no control.

Perhaps the learned gentleman will show us how to run the coal trade by first of all getting the Canadian mines going full time. I advise him to try his hand first at the coal fields near home at Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island. The truth is we are over-populated in this "precious gem set in the silver sea," and could spare at least two millions for Canada. Instead of belittling British statesmen and stabbing his country in the back, let the B.A. place all his talents, all his learning at the disposal of his own Government and the British Government for the emigration of these two million souls. That would be much better than helping the Yankee and others to "twist the lion's tail," and be more in keeping with all that is summed up in the word British.

The Old Country is not finished with yet.

We are the heaviest taxed country in the world, but we pay our way and we hold our heads high, and we fear no one but God, Who made us mighty and Who, we believe, will make us mightier yet.

NORMAN E. MACKIE.

Fort Talbot, South Wales, Sept. 18, 1927.

PHILOSOPHY OF PITY

Sir,—Out of respect to those who hold and have expressed a contrary point of view concerning my conclusion that pity is a vice, I am constrained to elaborate my previous statement, and by your kindly leave publish the following remarks:

In attempting to state philosophical fundamentals through the channel of vocabulary, one is handicapped at the outset by not having quantitative measures with which to demonstrate the truth of one's statement. One cannot state the relationship between goodness and badness, virtue and vice, as a mathematical equation. Yet there is fundamental good, love, truth and reason, and these have one distributive source.

On the assumption that such is the case, philosophy attempts to isolate goodness, truthfulness, love and reason and place them, as elements, together with their attributes, into recognizable and distinct categories. Then to the philosopher—God is good, God is love, God is truth and God is reason.

These entities, or if one would rather, elements, let me repeat: Are fundamentals and require no qualification. When and if I say reason is "supremely" good, the adjective is superfluous. No attributes to these elements can be allowed to have an opposite trend or tendency at any time under any circumstance. Therefore no attribute to goodness or virtue can at any time have a tendency to badness or vice. The attributes to good must at all times themselves be good.

Sympathy, kindliness, compassion and mercy are attributes to good and are virtues. They could never be other than good, and any human act prompted by these attributes is good; but pity, as demonstrated in the original discussion, might spring from a vicious source, therefore it is a vice and could never be virtuous.

So, Mr. Editor, unless contrary-minded correspondents can demonstrate that pity is always good, I must consistently maintain it is never a virtue. Of course, one recognizes the difficulties of definitions. Where these are great, one must appeal to reason. But there, I have said that, with other fundamentals, God is reason. The more highly one's reason is developed, the more godly the individual. Reason that is not good, truthful, and lovely is not thoroughly developed. I do not think spirituality is dying, but I do think past conceptions of spirituality, where they will not admit the exercise of reason, are dying.

CHARLES ELLIS.

ZONING BY-LAW BEING DRAFTED

City Is Divided Into Several Areas Under Tentative Draft of Final Zoning By-Law

Zoning engineer Doughty Davies is now working on the final draft of the Victoria zoning by-law, which, when finally passed, will throw into the discard the interim zoning by-law passed some months ago.

Under the new by-law the city will be divided into several districts. There will be the single family district, the two family district, apartment district, retail district, garage and light industry district and manufacturers' district.

No professional boarding houses will be allowed in the single family district, which will be purely residential. Buildings in this area will be allowed to occupy forty per cent of the lot area, including garage and accessory buildings.

The two family district has been provided for the sole purpose of professional boarding houses. As in the single family district the building may occupy forty per cent of the lot area, and may be erected two and a half stories high.

In the apartment area, clubs, sanitariums and charitable institutions also will be allowed. The buildings in this section may occupy sixty per cent of the lot space and be erected three stories high.

The retail district probably will include garage shops for repairs and salesrooms, theatres, funeral parlors, dyeing and cleaning businesses and office buildings. It is proposed to allow buildings in this area to be erected six stories in height, and higher if the additional floor is stepped back. This follows the new architecture now being introduced in New York where tall buildings are pyramided to allow better lighting on the streets below.

In the light industry district the same building regulations will prevail as in the retail section, but no industry which will prove a nuisance as regards smoke, noise or odor will be allowed. The factory district will allow the carrying on of anything for lawful use.

This is an outline of the rough draft now being prepared by Mr. Davies and which will be worded into a by-law to be submitted to the Council for its approval shortly.

FINANCIER EXPECTS EARLY SOVIET END

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Sir Henri W. Deterding, of London, director-general of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company, who has been recently engaged in a bitter controversy with the Standard Oil Company of New York over control of Russian oil, predicted through his New York representative today that the Soviet Government would be short-lived.

Sir Henry asserted that the Soviet Government, which has taken over natural industries and resources, did not represent the Russian people.

Recalling that in June, 1918, the Soviet authorities confiscated the oil fields, refineries, machinery, stocks and assets, Sir Henri added: "Politically, this is confiscation. Practically, all of these objects were stolen, not by representatives of the people, but by a gang who, by controlling the army, had usurped the power to do anything which would not have been tolerated otherwise."

First Actor: "Can you lend me a sovereign for a month, old boy?"
Second Ditto: "What does a month-old-boy want with a sovereign?"

EPIDEMIC CLOSES SCHOOLS IN KANSAS

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 5.—All the public and private schools of Wichita, except the University of Wichita and Friends University, were ordered closed last night by Dr. J. F. Wilf, city physician, due to a threatening epidemic of infantile paralysis. The order, confining approximately 20,000 pupils to their homes, will be effective for an indefinite period.

HE SEEKS TO PLEASE

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Woman resembles the ape more than does man, at least so it seems to Dr. Arthur Thomson, eminent British anatomist, professor in that science at Oxford University since 1893.

In making his assertion before the Royal Academy last night, Dr. Thomson said the basis for his statement was that woman's legs are usually shorter, and her arms longer, than man's.

It is only conceit which makes mankind believe it is not descended from the ape, he continued. Although generations have wrought great changes in anatomy, the similarities are too great to be ignored. Furthermore, he contended, a baby, until it can walk, "resembles the ape in nearly every respect."

Co-ed: "Where will we go?"
Second: "I don't know. It's too late to go to bed and too early for a night club." — Allston (Mass.) Recorder.

Dies in Church

VIENNA, Oct. 5.—Count Johann Zziraky, court chamberlain to Archduke Franz Josef and member of the Upper House, died yesterday while kneeling in the Franciscan church.

HEAD OF POSTAL DEPARTMENT HERE

Postmaster-General of Canada, With Deputy, Is Visitor in Course of Western Tour

The Postmaster-General of Canada, Hon. P. J. Veniot, was a visitor to Victoria yesterday in the course of his Western tour. He arrived from Seattle, where he had been examining the latest methods for fast handling of mails, and left again on the night steamer for Vancouver.

Mr. Veniot, who was accompanied by Mrs. Veniot, Major W. L. Veniot, his private secretary, and Miss L. D. Theriault, executive secretary, by Mr. L. J. Gaboury, Deputy Postmaster-General, and Mrs. Gaboury, visited the Postoffice, and also the Assistant Receiver-General's office. The latter visit was made in connection with the transfer of the Dominion Savings Bank to the Postoffice Savings Bank, which is now in progress.

Radio Show Ends After Successful Three Days

Dealers Report Many Sales and Listing Numbers of Prospective Customers as a Result of the Fine Display of Sets

The fourth annual radio show held by the Victoria Radio Club at the Crystal Garden closed yesterday evening after a successful run of three days. Attendance amounted to nearly 3,000, which is above the average of 2,500 during the last three shows.

Many dealers reported having made sales and listing numbers of prospective customers as a result of the fine display of sets, which was declared the largest ever gathered together in the city. Radio receivers on view were in the majority of instances five-tube and six-tube outfits, nearly every make having at least one model that could be operated from the electric light socket. B eliminators, A eliminators and combinations of the two devices to dispense with all batteries by using electric light current were much in evidence. Some of them were entirely automatic and required little or no attention after connection to a radio set. Loud speakers of every conceivable type and shape were displayed. One particular model was designed to be operated by alternating current and contained an amplifying device capable of delivering an enormous volume of undistorted sound.

Although adverse conditions existed in the steel-framed building, patrons were treated to a wonderful variety of music and songs from coast stations. A network of aerials was in evidence near the ceiling of the auditorium, and although they crossed each other in several instances, no interference was apparent, so selective were the outfits snatching programmes from the air.

The complete short-wave station, operated by Mr. H. J. Cunningham, handled over sixty messages to all parts of Canada and the United States over amateur relay routes. A special transmitting aerial and counterpoise was erected outside the building, and the set derived its power from a 450-volt collection of Eveready layerbuilt batteries which held up perfectly under the strain of a heavy current output.

Those who attended the show had an opportunity to see what great strides radio has taken during the last few years since the inception of broadcast entertainment, and what a nation-wide thing it is becoming. It is safe to say that the modern home in the near future will not be complete without a radio receiver.

Radio experts responsible for the exhibition were: Messrs. W. T. McGibbon, J. Dunlop, W. S. Smith, N. Hirst, H. W. Chandler, G. H. Grant, K. M. Chadwick, J. Frampton, E. Hawkins and H. West.

A FINE EXHIBIT

The Canadian General Electric exhibit, represented by Jameson Motors, Limited, Island distributors for Radiola sets and accessories, was one of the finest in the show.

C.G.E. units displayed included an eight-tube super-heterodyne Radiola 28, noted for its ease of operation and extreme selectivity. With a plug-in loop aerial and ample space for batteries or other current supply, the set had a very compact appearance and was housed in a cabinet of the desk type, which would grace the furnishings of any home. With extremely simple tuned controls the circuit is non-radiating and is guaranteed not to interfere with any other receiving set, however close it may be. The popular Radiola 20, with five tubes, giving two stages of tuned radio frequency amplification, was also much in evidence.

Model 104 loudspeaker, the last word in faithful music reproduction, was demonstrated frequently during the afternoon and evening. The volume of the instrument can be regulated from a mere whisper to a torrent of sound by a simple control. Model 104 employs a rigid cone, energized by a powerful electro-magnet and can be operated direct from electric light sockets. C.G.E. 100A loudspeaker was also on display and was used by several dealers to purvey radio music to patrons.

Tungar battery chargers of all types and Balkite power supply devices were also featured in the C.G.E. display. So great was the volume of clear undistorted music from the powerful 104 speaker that several times it was found necessary to decrease it somewhat.

E. G. Prior & Co., Ltd., distributors for Westinghouse sets, speakers and power supply devices, had an attractive exhibit on the stage at the head of the auditorium.

IMPOSING INSTRUMENT

Model 58, an imposing instrument operated entirely from the light socket, was provided with a special oval cone built-in loudspeaker. With a UX-171 power amplifier tube the set is capable of volumes of clear music. A six-tube batteryless console model was provided with four stages of radio frequency amplification, with also audio and power amplification, putting the set in a class by itself for simplicity of control and performance.

Model 57, a five-tube table model set, was equipped for operation either by dry cells, storage batteries or other power. Model 60, a five-tube set in a handsome walnut cabinet, was even more simple to operate, with one main tuning control.

The Rectox trickle charger, operating on 110 volts alternating current of either twenty-five or sixty cycles, was also another Westinghouse product handled by the firm. This charger has no moving parts, no tubes, no acids or water and once installed for battery charging requires no further attention. The Westinghouse A power unit for the supply of filament current for all types of radio sets also contained a Rectox rectifier. The Westinghouse B eliminator for operation on either twenty-five or sixty cycle alternating current, was also another of the power devices. This eliminator utilizes the UX-280 Radiotron for full wave rectification and will constantly deliver 125 milliamps of direct current for any multiple tube radio receiver. The Westinghouse oval cone loudspeaker, a beautifully finished instrument, completed Prior's display.

Marshall Wells B.C. Limited exhibit of DeForest Crosley radio sets was also another outstanding display. Sets included the Super-Trirdyn, with a circuit stabilized by Wheatstone bridge principle and an all-metal chassis, and capable of being operated from either storage or dry batteries. The Conway, a five-tube tuned radio frequency set, was provided with a handsome walnut cabinet. Also with a Wheatstone bridge circuit, the Warwick was an outfit of six tubes with virtually single control. The Balmoral, a single control seven-tube set, was designed for use with power tubes to give enormous volume.

The larger cabinet sets included the Hastings, with five tubes and dual vernier control. With a built-in symphony speaker, the set has an imposing appearance. The Berwick, with seven tubes and a cabinet taking the appearance of a stately article of furniture, was completely shielded and provided with a tone filter and special reproducing unit. With six tubes, the Windsor cabinet model completed the line of DeForest Crosley sets.

All the sets, with the exception of the Super-Trirdyn, were obtainable for either battery or light socket operation and are now built in Canada.

The DeForest B eliminator was fitted with a Mershon condenser, producing a constant supply of well filtered current for plate supply. Voltages were obtainable from twenty-two and a half to 180, sufficient for radio sets of all types.

LOUD SPEAKERS

Loud speakers included cone models and a more elaborate device known as the Musiconsole; a recent improvement over loud speakers of the old type. The DeForest Crosley A power unit was provided with a Rectox charger and storage battery of large capacity.

Mackenzie, White & Dunsmuir, distributors for King Radio sets, Musicone speakers, Peerless speakers, Tungar apparatus, Sensory antenna equipment, Silvercone speakers and Prest-O-Lite A batteries, had a fine display.

Among the King line was the Commander, a six-tube completely shielded receiver with a loop aerial that could be folded within the set. With a burl walnut cabinet the outfit was provided with a single dial station selector and a volume control.

The Chevalier was another six-tube shielded receiver with a built-in seven-inch Peerless reproducer. In a high boy cabinet this set had the appearance of a fine piece of period furniture. The Viking also had a built-in speaker and stabilized circuit with two stages of radio frequency, detector and three stages of audio amplification. Space was provided for filament and plate current batteries.

A TABLE MODEL

The Crusader, with the same chassis as the Chevalier, was a table model set with six tubes completely shielded. A single dial station selector provided very simple control. In a Gothic design cabinet the Baronet was also a six-tube tuned radio frequency table model with rugged mechanical construction.

Radio Sales Service Ltd. had the largest display of accessories, featuring Eveready Layerbuilt B batteries and Eveready dry cells. The Canadian National Carbon Company Ltd., with branches at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, manufacturers of Eveready batteries, own and operate radio station CKNC at Toronto, which is on the air every Monday and Thursday evenings at 9 o'clock.

Layerbuilt batteries are now made in many types from a small C battery for grid potential regulation to No. 486, an oversize forty-five volt B battery, and No. 7111 special dry cell for filament current and other purposes.

Included in specialties handled by the Radio Sales firm were Tungar apparatus and chargers, C.G.E. phones and speakers, Philco power units, Utah amplifying units, Amsco variable condensers, Yaxley products and Philco batteries.

A fully automatic A and B power unit made for Radiola 28 on exhibition was controlled by a special relay. This power device eliminates all batteries and has only to be connected with the electric light socket and from there to the set.

Former Head Of St. Louis College Dead

Rev. Brother Thomas G. Grangel, late principal of St. Louis College, Victoria, passed away in Chicago on Tuesday from an acute heart attack following pneumonia.

The news has been received with great regret by many people in Victoria, where Brother Grangel had a wide circle of friends, particularly among his former pupils at St. Louis College and their parents, by whom he was held in great esteem. A member of the teaching Order of Christian Brothers of Ireland, it was in 1920 that he came to this city to take the position of principal at the Catholic School for boys, and it is just a year since he left here to take a position in St. Leo's High School, Chicago, where he had already won a good name as a teacher.

A native of Wexford County, Ireland, he received his education in the local schools there, afterwards proceeding to Dublin to enter the university. He also graduated from the Royal College of Science, Dublin, and taught in the Old Country for fifteen years before he left for Canada in 1914. Until he came to Victoria he was teaching in Halifax. The school here made notable headway during his regime.

He was forty-three years of age. His mother and several brothers and sisters are still living in Ireland.

MALAHAT WORK HALTS TRAFFIC

Motorists Caught at Ferry Terminal, and Long Wait Became Essential to Reach City Last Night

The closing of the Malahat Drive, announced by advertisement in the newspapers on Tuesday and Wednesday, appears to have caught a number of motorists by surprise, and considerable discomfort is reported by arrivals in the city last evening.

It seems that the 4 o'clock ferry sailing from Mill Bay to Brentwood, was unable to take care of the congestion of traffic southbound, some of which consisted of through travel from Vancouver via Nanaimo, and that while the vessel brought over as many cars as possible, it was equally unable to take care of the available traffic offering again at the 6 p.m. sailing, and a special effort was made with an extra sailing at night to bring cars across to Brentwood. Thus, some of the motorists had several hours to wait at Mill Bay.

They expressed themselves indignant at the action of the Public Works Department, declaring that after 5 o'clock on the Malahat drive, when road work is suspended for the day, the thoroughfare should be left in good condition for travel until blasting is resumed next day. In that way, they pointed out to The Colonist, those who were unable to be accommodated on the ferry, would be permitted to drive through to Victoria by road. The highway is at present closed owing to blasting operations in connection with the improvement work.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CONSERVATIVES SET FOR TONIGHT

The annual meeting of the Conservative Association for the city of Victoria will be held this evening in the rooms of the association, Campbell Building. This meeting is for the purpose of electing officers for the year and for the transaction of general business connected with the association.

There will be a number of speakers who will contribute to the proceedings with addresses upon political questions. Mr. E. B. Plunkett, the retiring president, will review the work of the past year.

Western Flight Across Atlantic Hazardous One

How Weather Plays Dominant Role in Drama Explained by British Airman—Adverse Wind and Weather Save on Odd Occasions

By CAPTAIN FRANK T. COURTNEY
(Copyright by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

By now practically everybody knows that Atlantic flying is something more than merely covering a certain big distance by air.

During the earlier part of this year various machines, generally without any safety equipment or any navigating arrangements, came over with monotonous success from West to East, making the whole business look very easy. Then attempts made to fly from this side all ended in tragedy or failure, and later even flights from the other side became disasters.

In a responsible paper I saw a statement the other day that the problem is merely one of improved gasoline range to cover the difference between headwinds and tailwinds, but I think most people will realize by now that there is more in it that this. There is!

The problem of why the westward flight is so much more difficult than the eastward is, of course, fundamentally one of weather, but the effect of the weather difference on gasoline consumption is no more important than its effect on navigation.

When I started work on my own scheme I went into all these matters as fully as I was able. During the months when I was preparing, and then delayed through mechanical troubles, I was forced to follow the whole situation of transatlantic flying in daily detail, partly to see how I stood myself, and partly to study the chances of my rivals. Consequently I have learnt an immense amount from comparing actual facts with my original assumptions and information.

ROOT OF TROUBLE

A general review of the situation may therefore be of interest and possibly of value. Weather being at the bottom of the trouble, let me try and give simply an idea of what North Atlantic weather generally is. The explanations and diagrams are not meant to be meteorologically exact—they are merely intended to give a simple idea of the situation.

North Atlantic weather is governed chiefly by the movement of areas of low barometric pressure generally called depressions. Around these the wind blows in a counter-clockwise direction, giving westerly winds on the south side and easterly on the north.

A deep depression has a very low barometer in the middle, strong winds and bad weather around it, and may extend its influence over many hundreds of miles. I say that these depressions "govern" the weather because their opposite number, the anticyclone or "high," where the winds revolve the opposite way, is generally much slower in its movements, has much lighter winds and fine weather, and is less of a problem to the forecaster.

The depressions generally travel from somewhere near the American Coast, following a path roughly northeast and arrive usually anywhere between Ireland and Iceland. The diagram shows how such depressions maintain westerly winds over that part of the Atlantic where flights generally take place.

The high pressure area between the depressions may give a chance of north or northwest winds and finer weather for a longer or shorter time, and this period has to be estimated by the forecaster. Sometimes the depression may go far enough north and become feeble enough for the southern high pressure area to move up with lighter west winds and finer weather.

A RARE CHANCE

On rare occasions, however, the depressions may take a southerly course, permitting the northern high pressure area to come down, combine with the east winds to the north of the depression, and thus give favoring winds for the east to west flight.

This may occur over part of the route, and even, very rarely, over the whole route. But such conditions are unstable and doubtful as a rule, and there is always the risk that a pilot may start when conditions are in that way favorable, only to find that, by the time he reaches that area, the depression has suddenly moved north, giving him adverse winds where he had counted on favorable winds.

Fig. 2, for example, shows roughly what probably happened to Minchin. When he started there was a depression at A moving eastwards and giving him favoring winds on his rather northerly course to Ottawa. There was every reason to think this depression would continue eastwards, instead of which it moved more north to B, giving precisely the opposite winds. Even had Col. Minchin known of this movement he could only have dealt with it by going too far off his course.

GERMAN "ERROR"

Fig. 3 gives a general idea of the weather position when the Germans started from Dessau. At Calshot there was a strong west wind and I could not bring my machine ashore. Dessau, however, being further east, the Germans could have gone around Scotland with a good following wind the whole way to Newfoundland. In fact, I was sure that they would do this, and that, provided their engines ran, they would get across, since they could afford to throttle back to a low speed and thus prolong their gasoline supply. For some reason they cut across England south of the depression centre. I knew then that they had no chance, and was relieved when they turned back.

As it turned out, however, the depression, which had been stationary for some time, decided to move off northeast, so that in any case the Germans would probably have had to go too far off their route to get much advantage.

To avoid complications I have not referred to secondary depressions so far. These are generally small and rapidly formed low pressure growths on the side of a main depression, which often serve to maintain westerly winds, where otherwise the high pressure might have had a chance to come in. These points will, I hope, give the layman a fair idea of Atlantic weather changes.

RARE OCCASIONS

It is clear, therefore, that the east to west pilot, trying to fly directly across, must face steadily adverse winds unless he is fortunate enough to catch the transient favoring conditions on the relatively rare occasions when they occur. In, and about May is about the only time when such conditions ever occur with reasonable stability.

But there is even more in it than this, as will be seen when we examine the effect on navigation. For simplicity let us take the common case of a heavily loaded machine doing seventy-five miles an our and a west wind of twenty-five miles per hour. Flying from west to east this machine is covering distance at seventy-five plus twenty-five, or 100 miles an hour. Going westwards it is doing seventy-five minus twenty-five, or fifty miles per hour, or only half its eastward speed.

This does not merely mean that the flyer must use double the gasoline. For he must run neither above nor below his commercial speed, whereas with a following wind he can throttle right back and let the wind more than make up the difference.

Again with the head wind there is twice the time for favorable conditions ahead to change into unfavorable; there is twice the time for the weather forecast on which he started to become obsolete. Should the wind turn partly to one side, say northwest or southwest, he will drift just as far to one side in one hour as if he were going eastwards, but only have gone half as far forwards, so that his deviation from the course is much greater over the whole route.

EAST AND WEST DIFFERENT

And here I should point out that navigation eastwards is a very different proposition from that westwards.

Coming from Newfoundland it is practically impossible to miss hitting Europe somewhere between the North of Ireland and the North of France, for Europe presents a practically flat face of well-mapped land to any rough eastward course. Thus navigation eastward presents no particular problem, and has, in fact, not been seriously attempted.

Lindbergh himself stated that he flew merely on the principle that he had so much gasoline and that it didn't matter where he hit Europe.

On the other hand, flying westwards, if the Owalon Peninsula of Newfoundland, with its fogs and rain, is missed, to the south, hundreds of miles may be covered on a great circular course before land is met. If it is missed to the north the same conditions occur, but not so badly, except that practically unmapped land is met and the aviator would be hopelessly lost.

A BIG DIFFERENCE

As I have said, a westwards pilot with head and side winds and no proper navigation, might easily be two hundred miles off his course, where the eastwards pilot would not be far enough off to matter; and if weather were thick the westwards pilot would not know whether to turn north or south to find land, whereas the eastwards pilot would merely have to continue east.

This position is still further aggravated by the question of night. Flying eastwards toward sunrise a pilot considerably reduces his nighttime. Flying westwards he increases it.

At this time of the year, for example, flying eastwards the night would be nine hours and westwards about thirteen hours. During the night observations of the sea cannot be taken to show drift, which may very seriously change. A cloudy night might prevent sextant observations even if a sextant were carried.

And still a further point arises. The eastward pilot, in difficulties low down, which would be more serious at night, can climb with a certainty of the wind becoming more favorable high up. A wind from the east, however, almost invariably decreases after 3,000 feet, and may then become west, so that in a long night flight with thick weather and low clouds, the westward pilot can only exchange one set of bad conditions for another.

All this sounds a sad tale of woe, but it is nevertheless true. Obviously there must be some very strong reason why nobody has so far got across from this side, and why those who came this way went back by boat.

I insist that the problem is in no way an insuperable one. But it is not going to be solved, except by a "fluke," by filling up a land machine with as much gasoline as it will carry and pushing off westwards and hoping for the best.

All the above points were clear to me when I entered on my project eary this year, and the events of the year have merely confirmed them. That is why my plans were different from those of everyone else. I decided on a sacrifice of fuel for the solid hull of a metal flying boat.

There are those who contend that, anyway, in a heavy Atlantic sea, a flying boat could not survive, and is therefore no better off than a land machine. When Commander Rodgers, of the U.S. Navy, tried to fly to Hawaii in a flying boat, his own last wireless message stated that he was running out of gasoline and had no hopes of surviving the heavy sea below. Some days later a submarine picked him and his crew up perfectly safe.

SEAPLANE SAFETY

On a Dornier machine exactly similar to my own, Commander Locatelli rode out a three-day gale in the Atlantic. A year or so ago a passenger-carrying land machine fell into a relatively smooth sea in the Channel, and sank in a couple of hours. Incidentally, Flight-Lieut. Carr's overland flight to India would have been safer on a flying boat, as on each occasion he was compelled to select water for his descent.

Along with the business of using land machines over hundreds of miles of sea, the nonstop idea should also be knocked on the head. Provided refuelling is done with such rapidity that it does not reduce seriously the value of an airplane as a high-speed vehicle it is not detrimental.

Really proper navigating arrangements absolutely must be applied to the east to west flight. My own future arrangements in this connection I do not propose to refer to, but it is clear that ordinary slipshod methods will merely lead to trouble.

My own withdrawal was due mainly to the facts that I considered certain equipments and methods essential to a serious flight, that through repeated delay in part of the equipment I was left no time in which seriously to try out the entire outfit, and that my attempt showed me that it was too late in the year to hope for success with my arrangements as they were. And, as subsequently transpired, the Newfoundland weather wanted some dealing with. It is useful to know when to stop.

Finally, the point arises. Is all this worth while? Of course it is! People can sneer at the poor fellows who go off over miles of sea with a land machine with not much to help them beyond hope, but even their failure and deaths are of value in pointing to the problems that must be studied for the inevitable development of ocean flying. Minchin, Hamilton, and the others have not died uselessly.

Mr. Olding received two fractured ribs and a bad cut over the head. Mr. J. Phillips was the driver of the car.

Damage to Telephones—The repair department of the B.C. Telephone Company has been exceptionally busy during the last two days repairing the damage to telephones from the recent rainstorm. When the storm was at its height several manholes flooded, and cable was damaged, which placed a number of telephones out of commission.

Victoria Medical Society—The officers of the Victoria Medical Society are: President, Dr. M. W. Thomas; vice-president, Dr. R. L. Miller; honorary secretary-treasurer, Dr. Stuart G. Kenning, library committee, Dr. Forrest Leeder, Dr. George Hall and Dr. Gordon C. Kenning. Dr. Thomas McPherson was appointed to the executive of the B.C. Medical Association, and Dr. H. E. Ridewood was elected honorary treasurer of the library funds.

On Visit Here—A well-known South African judge, Hon. Mr. Justice F. E. T. Krause, of the Supreme Court of South Africa, is registered at the Empress Hotel, on a Canadian tour. Judge Krause was special commandant and military governor of Johannesburg during the Boer War, and surrendered the city to Lord Roberts, May 31, 1900. He was a member of Parliament for Vrededorp, 1907-10, and has been chairman of a number of commissions.

Takes Over New Duties—Mr. Alan B. Morkill, the newly-appointed manager of the branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, located at the corner of Douglas and Johnson Streets, has taken over the duties of his office there. Mr. Morkill is not a stranger to the city. He was formerly manager of the branch at Oak Bay, having been the first manager of that branch bank upon its opening. For some years before returning to this city he has had charge of the Anyox branch of the Bank of Commerce.

Want Interchange—The Vancouver Island Branch of the Manufacturers' Association has endorsed the action taken for the purpose of having the interchanging of railway facilities provided here. At the luncheon meeting of the branch yesterday the situation was set forth on behalf of the city by Mr. C. P. W. Schwengers, president, and Mr. R. W. Mayhew, vice-president, of the Chamber of Commerce. It was urged that the city should present a united front in pressing for this interchange, as it would be to the advantage of the city.

Protection of Fisheries—Representatives of the canners and the fishermen on the Mainland are preparing a basis which they will press upon the Dominion and the Provincial authorities looking to the improvement of the fishing conditions and which threaten the death of the industry if action is not taken to check the depletion of the run of salmon. The enforcement of regulations that will cut off the wholesale destruction of the salmon industry is aimed at, and the Governments will be asked to lend assistance in the carrying out of such a plan.

City Hall Activities in Brief

SUPERANNUATION

A general meeting of the City Hall employees will be held in the council chamber at 5 o'clock tonight to discuss the scheme of superannuation proposed by the City Council, for which a by-law is now being drafted by City Solicitor H. S. Pringle. The police force is withholding its decision in the matter until the by-law has been prepared. They wish to peruse the scheme in detail before committing themselves either way. The firemen have held fast to their first request that the provincial scheme be put into effect under Provincial Government administration. No word has yet been received from the outside staff of the City Hall.

GIFT FROM PRINCE

Mayor J. Carl Pendray received on behalf of the City of Victoria a gift from the Prince of Wales. The present, which arrived by express yesterday morning, was a box of peony plants. It is suggested that the peonies be planted at the base of the war memorial in Parliament Square.

INDUSTRIAL BY-LAWS

In discussing the application for the extension of time on the motion picture by-law and grain elevator by-law, City Solicitor H. S. Pringle stated yesterday that in the case of the motion picture by-law all that would be necessary for Mr. Claude Flemming to do, if he could not raise the money within the required limit of time, would be to go ahead and raise the money anyway. When the amount was secured a new company could be formed and the city would then be able to assign the rights it had originally assigned to Mr. Flemming over to the company. In the case of the grain elevator by-law Mr. Pringle said that there was nothing to prevent the grain elevator doing a small amount of construction before the ninety-day limit was up. This work could be of such a character as not to interfere with the revision of the plans and yet at the same time comply with the by-law which calls for the starting of construction within ninety days. Another point raised by Mr. Pringle was that the revision of the plans might be taken as a beginning of the work.

INDUSTRIAL WATER MAIN

Work on installing a twelve-inch water main into the industrial reserve from the Victoria West main is expected to be completed by the end of this week, City Engineer Preston announced yesterday. The installation of this main will raise the pressure and enable the new pulp mill on the reserve to get an adequate supply of water.

RADIO DEALERS DISPLAY WARES

SUCCESSFUL SHOW LASTS THREE DAYS

Jim Bryant's display at the three-day radio show featured Rogers' batteryless radio receiving sets in five models from a simple table outfit to a magnificent seven-tube Jubilee console, incorporating the famous Rogers AC power unit and tubes.

Over two years ago Rogers pioneered the field of light socket radio reception with a complete, unified set operating direct from the home lighting current, without batteries or chemicals. Clear, full toned, consistently powerful and uniform reception is provided by these sets at a cost averaging four cents a week for current.

Rogers B eliminators are now available for those wishing to dispense with plate B batteries on radio sets up to six tubes. Encased in a metal cabinet the Type 60 eliminator delivers 135 volts at thirty-five milliamps. Type U delivers 180 volts at thirty-five milliamps. Other lines handled by Jim Bryant included King and Kolster radio sets, Philco power units, Rogers, Utah and Splitdorf loudspeakers, Ceco tubes and general radio supplies, including a complete line for those who build their own sets.

Murphy Electric Co. exhibited Westinghouse receiving sets, Eveready A and B batteries, Balkite trickle charger, B eliminators and AB units, and Webco B eliminators.

The new Balkite AB unit replaces both A and B batteries and supplies current from the light socket. It contains no battery in any form, no relay, nor ever requires recharging and is only operated during reception. Five years ago the first Balkite rectifier was designed, using the principle of electrolytic rectification, with nothing to wear out or replace in the instrument.

MARCONI SETS

Marconi radio sets exhibited by the Radio Shop included a Mark VI four-tube receiver designed for dry cell or storage battery operation, with a two-dial control. The set was guaranteed not to interfere with other outfits in the neighborhood and included one stage of tuned radio frequency and two stages of audio frequency. Current consumption was from eight to twelve milliamps, insuring economical operation.

Using the new Radiotron AC tubes a Mark X six-tube set in a tall walnut cabinet was on exhibition. The set was provided with a one-dial illuminated control and operated from the electric light socket with or without an aerial. Power consumption at 110 volts from the light sockets amounted to only fifty watts.

With a full line of five Marconi receivers the Radio Shop had Ufah, Splitdorf, C.G.E., and Trimm loud speakers, Balkite power units, Philco power units and Splitdorf and King radio sets.

Kolster sets were the foremost article displayed by the Victoria Radio & Electrical Co. The Kolster Type 6-D, a single control six-tube outfit, with station selector marked in metres, was demonstrated. This set had three stages of tuned radio frequency, detector and two stages of audio, including a power tube.

Dr. Frederick Kolster, designer of Kolster radio products, has among inventions to his credit the Kolster radio compass, Kolster radio beacon and Kolster decremeter, well known commercial radio devices in constant use.

Other lines displayed included Burgess and Eveready batteries, Stewart-Warner radio tubes Stewart-Warner receivers, and Majestic A and B eliminators of all sizes.

BELMONT SERVICE

The Belmont Radio Service exhibit featured Atwater Kent radio sets, Philco batteries, Westinghouse recton trickle chargers and Atwater Kent loudspeakers.

One of the most compact sets in the whole show was a six-tube Atwater Kent outfit incased in a perfectly screened ornamented metal cabinet, with single dial tuning control.

Stewart-Warner receivers, speakers, Philco batteries and power units, Stewart-Warner radio tubes and antenna kits comprised the exhibit by Minty & White.

With one, two and three controls, Stewart-Warner sets were displayed in models ranging from five tubes up, in cabinets of all kinds to the de Luxe console, in a seventeenth century English period design. Loudspeakers in three models comprised the selection of music reproducers. Model 425, incorporating a new unit eliminates all periods of vibration, giving equal reproduction of all tones.

MOHAWK RECEIVERS

Crowther Brothers display included Mohawk receivers in models from six to eight tubes, ten types of radio transformers, including Silver Marshall, Erla, Karas, Jefferson and Kelford; Kuprox dry rectifiers and A and B units, eight different makes of loud speakers and a complete line of accessories for those who build their own. B batteries on view included Maximite, Burgess and Eveready.

Crowther Brothers are the pioneer radio dealers of Vancouver Island, having built radio sets and stocked a very complete line of parts since 1914, when radio was "wireless" and broadcast music was a thing of the future.

Weiler Auto Supply House, specializing in radio service to all makes of sets, exhibited a complete line of Willard radio specialties, including A batteries, B storage batteries, AB power supply units, B eliminators of all sizes and types, silent rectifiers for battery charging and battery supplies.

The new Willard AB unit, replacing the usual storage battery and B batteries, is a self-contained device to be connected to the electric light socket. The A side of the unit contains a forty ampere hour charged bone-dry Willard battery and a tube type charger. A switch provides for two rates of charge, a half ampere trickle charge and a two ampere rate for sets of six tubes and more. The B side of the unit consists of a Willard new super-eliminator delivering up to 200 volts of pure direct current at forty milliamps.

McCABE TRIAL TO BE REHEARD

Award of Three Children Made by Supreme Court Is Cancelled in Court of Appeal

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—Expressing the view that there had been a miscarriage of justice and a mistrial, the court of appeal has sent back to the Supreme Court for rehearing petitions concerning the custody of three young children of Edward M. McCabe, seaman on the Dominion steamer Estevan.

Mr. Justice Morrison, in Victoria, had awarded custody of four-year-old Edward Michael McCabe, to an uncle, Alexander Henry Painter, Victoria coal and wood dealer, and to his wife, Lily Painter. Custody of Evelyn Marie McCabe, aged six, and Margaret Alice McCabe, aged two, had been awarded by his lordship to Benjamin Henry Sheppard and his wife, Winnifred Gwendolyn Sheppard.

Painter is a brother of the children's mother, Mrs. Ethel McCabe, who died March 2 last, and Mrs. Sheppard is a second cousin of the deceased.

MISTRIAL

Because the proceedings before Mr. Justice Morrison had not been reported by the Victoria official stenographer and because the judge had omitted to record any notes of the evidence, the court of appeal decided that there had been a miscarriage of justice.

"I attach no blame to the learned trial judge," said Chief Justice Macdonald. "No doubt he thought he was doing what he ought to do."

His lordship stated that the case would go back to the Supreme Court and he suggested to counsel that it would be advisable not to have the matter heard by the same judge because he may have some feeling in the case.

This latter opinion evoked objection from Mr. Justice Martin, who thought that there should be no other direction than that the case be reheard in Supreme Court. Mr. Justice Martin said that there had been a miscarriage of justice of a gross kind, and that the case should be sent back for trial, which will conform with the principles of justice.

Dirt weighing seventy-three tons was washed down on the City of London by rain during November last year.

WOMAN TRAVELER TO LECTURE HERE

Miss Phillipa Bridges to Give Address Under Local Council of Women Auspices October 17

Miss Phillipa Bridges, author, traveler, and lecturer, who is touring Canada, will be in Victoria on October 17 and 18. Arrangements have been made for her to address a meeting on the former date, under the auspices of the Victoria Local Council of Women.

Miss Phillipa Bridges is the daughter of the late Major D. W. Bridges, Royal Artillery, and a brother, General Sir Thomas Bridges, is Governor of South Australia. It was through General Bridges that she was able, during a visit to Australia, to enjoy facilities for several unusual expeditions into interesting and remote districts. One of these journeys was from Adelaide to Darwin, a distance of about three thousand miles. The trip took eleven weeks, and 660 miles had to be traveled on camelback.

The story of this thrilling journey is the subject of one of Miss Bridges lectures, lantern slides taken from her own photographs furnishing interesting illustrations.

Miss Bridges is particularly interested in farming for women, and she is very anxious to see more women working the land. She is at Regina at present, and using the occasion of her trip across the Prairies to study agricultural opportunities for women there.

China, Japan, and the Balkan States also have been visited by her. Among her publications is a book called "A Walk-about in Australia," another called "The Way of Destiny." From Victoria she is going to the United States. In connection with her present tour of Canada, Lady Aberdeen has written a personal endorsement of Miss Bridges' lectures, recommending her as a most interesting and original lecturer, and also commenting on her fine lantern slides.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

NOW—A FINER LUCILE-HOLEPROOF STOCKING

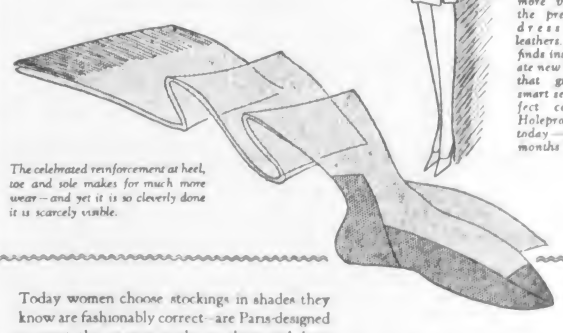
Than Ever Before

Full-fashioned smartness, but the same remarkable wearing qualities

HERE is a lustrous, lovely new Holeproof stocking, full fashioned to flatter and adorn; yet sacrificing none of its wearability and service. A heavy pure thread silk stocking chosen by fastidious women who demand smartly clad feet yet must have sturdy wearing quality, too. Colors selected right in Paris, by Lucile, world-famous designer; each color expressly intended to complement one of the new Fall shades popular in Paris.

$2.00 Ask for No. 2200

Never before has there been a color change more violent than in the present mode of dress materials and leathers. In them Lucile finds inspiration to create new stocking shades that give the ultra smart set ensemble perfect color harmony. Holeproof offers them today—as always, months in advance.



The celebrated reinforcement at heel, toe and sole makes for much more wear—and yet it is so cleverly done it is scarcely visible.

Today women choose stockings in shades they know are fashionably correct—are Paris-designed to meet the coming modes in shoes and dress materials. So Holeproof, in its colors, offers you the world-famous authority, Lucile, Paris. Each shade Lucile creates and sends exclusively to Holeproof. A new and all-important feature added to these stockings known to 2,000,000 women by their famous fashion points.

Exquisite clearness. In sheer weights clearness comes only through uniformly even thread. The lack of it in cheaper silks causes unsightly shadow rings. So at greater cost Holeproof selects silk judged the world's finest.

Superlative transparency, even in the heavier weights. There is no cloudiness, no streaking. First the silk is tested, then it undergoes the special Holeproof treatment.

No loose ends. Loose threads mar appearance. So Holeproof carefully trims the inside of each stocking by hand.

No imperfections. Style vanishes with imperfections. And here Holeproof safeguards you by nine separate inspections. It is a fact that few other fine hose are so uniformly perfect.

Gordon, provincial president, was a welcome visitor. Reports from various committees were readd and approved. The silver tea held at the home of Mrs. Jones, Bay Road, was a great success socially and financially. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Jones for so generously loaning her home to aid the Women's Institute. The new hall will be completed at the end of the month and a social evening is planned to mark the opening. Invitations will be sent to other Institutes in Saanich, and it is hoped to have the Hon. J. D. and Mrs. MacLean to visit Strawberry Vale on that occasion. Further plans were made for the children's fancy dress party and shower, which will be held in the hall on October 29, commencing at 5 o'clock. This affair is in aid of the Solarium, and though the children's part of the proceedings will not start until 5 o'clock, all residents of the district are asked to contribute to the shower, and for that purpose the hall will be open from 3 o'clock, and members will be there to receive donations. Gifts of preserved fruit, marmalade, assorted biscuits, vegetables, etc., will be gratefully received. The admission fee for children will be a donation for the shower or collection. Mrs. Service served afternoon tea at the close of the meeting.

Choir Makes Presentation to Its Leader

To honor Mr. Jackson Hanby, who recently retired from the conductorship of the First United Church choir after twelve years of service, the members of the choir entertained at a delightful banquet in the church social hall on Tuesday evening. The decorations were artistically arranged, dahlias, chrysanthemums, nasturtiums and leaves in the rich colors of Autumn being used. At 7 o'clock the guests, numbering about eighty, sat down to supper.

A letter of regret was read from Hon. Mr. Justice Gregory, honorary president, who was out of town and unable to be present. He voiced his appreciation of Mr. Hanby's work and believed that under the new leader, Mr. W. C. Fyfe, the choir would continue to maintain its high standard.

In a short address, Mr. George F. Watson expressed the regret of the choir at the loss of Mr. Hanby and presented him with a handsomely-bound address bearing the signatures of all the members and many others previously associated with the choir. Accompanying the address was a "pouch" of gold.

To Mrs. Hanby, Miss Ella Smith presented a charming basket of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

In replying for Mrs. Hanby and himself, Mr. Hanby thanked the choir for its gifts and spoke in glowing terms of the loyal support and fidelity of the choir at all times. He told many of his experiences with the choir and also elsewhere, and mentioned that his association with the First United choir had been the longest in his musical career.

Mr. William T. Straith brought greetings from the church service committee, and added their good wishes for Mr. Hanby to those already expressed.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games and music, the winners of the various competitions being Miss Beth Simpson, Mrs. Hugh Simmers, Mr. S. A. Veals and Mr. H. Simmers. Humorous readings by Mrs. Crowther, duets by W. C. and Beverley Fyfe, and songs by Miss Norah Jones were also enjoyed. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Weddings

CAMERON—HASSALL

On Saturday last, at Christ Church, Vancouver, the marriage took place of Miss Florence Ann Hassall, second daughter of Mr. A. F. P. Hassall, Leamington, England, and Mr. Angus E. H. Cameron, eldest son of Col. and Mrs. E. Cameron, of London, England. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron left for Victoria on a honeymoon, and will reside at Thetis Island.

HOLMAN—COLBY

At St. Saviour's Church, Victoria West, on Saturday evening last, a pretty wedding took place, when Rev. Robert Connell officiated at the marriage of Marjorie Clair Colby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Colby, of Pine Street, Victoria, and Mr. Samuel Cecil Holman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Holman, of North Park Street, Victoria.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in a lovely gown of white beaded georgette. Her tulle veil was bound with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Arthur Lock, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown was of pale pink georgette made bouffant style, with which she wore a silver wreath, and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and mauve Michaelmas daisies. Miss Margaret Winter, the bridesmaid, was dressed in apple-green georgette trimmed with cream silk lace and ribbon, also wearing a silver wreath and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Patricia Lock, niece of the bride, made a pretty flower girl in coral crepe de Chine, wearing a wreath of gold leaves and rosebuds of pastel shades, and carrying a basket of pink antirrhinums. The church was beautifully decorated with pink, white and mauve dahlias.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. W. Holman. The ushers were Mr. R. Holman and Mr. A. Wagg. During the signing of the register Miss Nancy Barr sang, "O Promise Me."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Lock, Bewdley Avenue, Esquimalt, where the bride and groom, standing under an arch of Autumn leaves and gladioli, from which was suspended a white bell, received the good wishes of their guests.

A three-tier wedding cake held the place of honor on the prettily-arranged table, the decorations being carried out in a color scheme of mauve and white. Mrs. Colby, mother of the bride, was becomingly attired in purple crepe de Chine trimmed with silver lace, and hat en suite, and Mrs. Holman, mother of the groom, was effectively gowned in navy blue Canton crepe trimmed in steel grey, with hat to match.

The bride's gift to the groom was a gold ring, and the groom's gift to the bride, an amethyst ring; to the matron of honor, a string of seed pearls; to the bridesmaid a sapphire brooch; to the flower girl a butterfly pendant; the best man, a tie pin; the ushers, fountain pens, and to Miss Nancy Barr a perfume atomizer.

The young couple left by the midnight boat for Vancouver and Portland. For her going-away gown, Mrs. Holman wore rosewood flat crepe with hat to match, and a velva bloom coat trimmed with grey fur. Upon their return they will make their home in Victoria.

DATE OF POPPY BALL CHANGED TO NOV. 10

Annual Affair Will Be Held at Empress Hotel by Ex-Service Organization

The Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion of B.E.S.L. will hold its annual poppy ball on November 10 at the Empress Hotel. In previous years the poppy ball has been held on November 11. Armistice night, and has been changed on account of the express wish of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, who is patron of the British Empire Service League, that the day be held as sacred by all ex-service men. His Royal Highness is opposed to celebrations of any kind on this night. It has been felt by local people that November 10 is therefore the most suitable night for the ball.

Mr. James Corrall, auditor for the S.C.R. Department at Vancouver, is making satisfactory progress towards recovery following the amputation of a leg. The operation was the result of wounds received during the war.

BELFAST BARS HORSES

Traffic congestion in Belfast, Ireland, has compelled city officials to adopt new regulations that bar horse-drawn vehicles, unless for the delivery or collection of goods, from all principal streets during busy hours of the day. Many thoroughfares have been made one-way streets, and strict parking rules have been drafted.

YANKS TAKE OPENING GAME FROM PIRATES

Moriarty Declares Yanks Played Best Ball to Win First

Detroit Manager Says Opening Encounter of Series Very Tame—Failure of Pitchers Surprises—Believe Break Came in First Inning

By GEORGE MORIARTY
Manager, Detroit baseball team.
(Copyright, 1927, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 5.—New York played better ball to win the first game of the World's Series, 5 to 4. With the exception of a few live incidents when baserunners crashed into waiting fielders, this opening encounter of the World Series was a very ordinary ball game. To me the most surprising feature of the game was the failure of the pitching aces of the two teams, Remy Kremer, of Pittsburgh, and Waite Hoyt, of New York, who failed to finish.

Kremer admittedly was not himself. Undoubtedly he started out with the set idea of feeding nothing but curve balls to the mauling Yankees, but his plan kept him in the hole constantly, as the New York batters failed to offer at this outside delivery.

DISAPPOINTED IN KREMER

Kremer's weakness seemed to be that he tried too much to pitch to the individual weaknesses of the Yankees. Since I first saw him in the Washington-Pittsburgh series two years ago, I have regarded him as one of the best so-called money pitchers, but I was keenly disappointed by his work in this game.

But Waite Hoyt also pitched a common variety of baseball. Miller Huggins made the correct move when he lifted Hoyt after Wright and Traynor singled off him with one out in the eighth inning. To gamble further with Hoyt would prove extremely dangerous. Manager Donie Bush also gave evidence of managerial wisdom when he lifted Kremer, following Lazzeri's double over Barnhardt's head in the sixth. Lazzeri was the lead-off batter. In sending in Miljus as relief pitcher for Kremer, Manager Bush uncovered a pitcher, who I believe will figure prominently in making history during the present series.

Sitting directly behind the home plate in the press box, I watched Miljus dish up a fast-breaking curve, side-arm fashion, and this fast-breaking hook spoiled much of New York's confidence at bat. How much it spoiled the confidence is apparent from the fact that Ruth's single in the seventh was the only hit New York made off Miljus in four innings of pitching.

I certainly like the way Miljus goes about the job of pitching, and he may be a stumbling block in the path of the Yankees.

Wilcy Moore went right to work with his famous sinker when he relieved Hoyt in the eighth. While he did less pitching than Miljus he gave the impression that his delivery was a hard one for Pittsburgh to hit.

THE BREAK OF THE GAME

And now for the break of the game. It must be traced to the first inning and the blame falls, unfortunately, upon the shoulders of the brilliant and sensational Paul Waner. The break came after Ruth had singled to right field with two out. The mighty Gehrig stepped to the plate and dropped a looping liner to right field. It was a weak drive. Paul was correctly playing the deep field for Gehrig and he came sprinting in hoping to make a shoestring catch. He finally dove for the ball but missed it by a foot. The ball traveled about forty feet beyond him and when he had returned it to the infield Ruth was across the plate and Gehrig was roosting on third. A more experienced outfielder would have been satisfied to hold the drive to a single but Paul's anxiety led him into making a fatal mistake. There were two out. He should have played it safe.

Lou Gehrig, Tony Lazzeri and Glenn Wright cornered the fielding honors in the first game. Gehrig stretched out on a few occasions and made one-handed stabs of wide throws which he converted into outs. His fielding of hard grounders was sensational.

Lazzeri was mixed in two collisions. He gamely held on to the ball each time. Had he dropped the ball on these two occasions the result would have been different.

Wright made a great play in the sixth. He was playing close in, ready to cut off a run at the plate, when Hoyt hit a difficult grounder to short. Wright fielded the ball, but instead of throwing home he took one step backward and whipped the ball to Grantham, starting a double play. That was, undoubtedly, the best individual play of the day.

GLENNA COLLETT IS ELIMINATED

Miss Helen Paget, of Ottawa, Defeats American Star, One Up, in Canadian Open Golf

ADA MACKENZIE WINS HER MATCH

GLENNA COLLETT

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—The defeat of Glenna Collett, of Greenwich, Conn., by one hole by Miss Helen Paget, of Ottawa, was the feature of the second round of match play for the Canadian women's open golf championship here this afternoon. Most of the seven other matches went through to form.

In the feature all-Canadian match, Miss Ada Mackenzie, Toronto, the titleholder, defeated Miss Dora Virtue, of Montreal, the Quebec champion, by six and five. Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Ottawa, another former titleholder, won from Miss Pattison, of Bermuda, five and three.

MISS PAGET ON GAME

Miss Paget displayed brilliant golf to defeat the former Canadian and United States champion. Neither player was more than one up at any time. The Ottawa golfer squared the match at the fourteenth by sinking a thirty-foot putt, and she won the fifteenth when Miss Collett drove badly. The sixteenth was halved and Miss Collett squared the match at the seventeenth with a beautiful chip, which also dropped into the cup. At the eighteenth Miss Collett was on the green with her drive, while the Ottawa girl was only four feet short of the cup with her second. Miss Collett with her second overran the cup and missed coming back, but Miss Paget dropped her putt for a three and the match.

The pairings for the third round championship flight Thursday: Miss Helen Paget, Royal Ottawa, vs. Miss Fritzi Stiefel, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Royal Ottawa, vs. Miss Ada Mackenzie; Miss Virginia VanWie, Chicago, vs. Mrs. J. Anderson, Cheery Valley; Mrs. F. C. Letts, Chicago, vs. Miss Helen Payson, Portland, Me.

THE RESULTS

Championship Flight, Second Round

Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Ottawa, defeated Miss A. Pattison, Bermuda, five and three.

Miss Ada MacKenzie, Toronto, defeated Miss Dora Virtue, Montreal, six and five.

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Harry Pressler, Los Angeles, six and four.

BRITISH HEAVY AFTER CROWN

Phil Scott, of England, Arrives in New York to Take Part in Rickard's Elimination Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A former British marine, who claims the heavyweight boxing championship of England, has come to the United States to take part in Tex Rickard's elimination series, the winner of which may get a chance at Gene Tunney's crown next year.

Phil Scott, six feet, two inches tall, and weighing 200 pounds, arrived in New York last night on the White Star liner Olympic, in company with Charlie Rose, his manager. He has signed a contract with Rickard to fight in New York October 28, his opponent to be selected between Jack Sharkey and Paulino Uzcudun.

Scott has engaged in seventy-three fights and has thirty-six knockouts to his credit. Harry Persson, the Swedish heavyweight, put Scott down for the count last year, but the Englishman came back and gained two decisions over Tom Heeney, of New Zealand. Paulino, the Spaniard, in a match in England, gained a decision over Scott.

SENIOR RUGBY TO OPEN SOON

First Games to Be Played on Nov. 5—J.B.A.A. to Meet Services and Wanderers Will Face Scottish

FOUR CLUBS FORM LEAGUE THIS YEAR

Four teams, J.B.A.A., 16th Canadian Scottish, United Services and Wanderers will swing into action on Saturday, November 5, in the opening matches of the 1927-28 senior Rugby season. The draw for the first fixtures are as follows:

J.B.A.A. vs. United Services; 16th Canadian Scottish vs. Wanderers.

Two first-class fields, the Willows and Work Point Barracks grounds, will be used. Last year three clubs performed in the senior loop and this necessitated one team having a bye each week. With a fourth member, the league should be a greater success and should afford fans a better variety of entertainment.

Teams have been practising for the last two or three weeks, and according to reports four strong fifteens are being lined up. The schedule will be divided into three sections, in which each team will meet the others once. The winner of each series will play off for the city championship.

An injured players' fund, something that has been needed for many years, will be created this season. It is suggested to give the members of the championship team miniature cups or medals at the close of the season.

Season tickets will be available in a few days and may be secured from members of the executive or team captains.

The first section of the schedule is as follows:

November 5—J.B.A.A. vs. United Services; 16th Canadian Scottish vs. Wanderers.

November 12—United Services vs. Wanderers; J.B.A.A. vs. 16th Canadian Scottish.

November 19 — Wanderers vs. J.B.A.A.; United Services vs. Canadian Scottish.

Buffalo ..... 010 001 000—2	6	1
Toledo ..... 102 000 00x—3	7	4

Championship Chess Again Ends in Draw

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 5.—The ninth game in the world's championship chess match, between Jose R. Capablanca and Alexander Alekhine, was declared a draw tonight after thirty-three moves. Capablanca, the champion, forced the draw by a perpetual check. Experts among the spectators had given up all hope for Alekhine early in the game, but he made a recovery through a series of brilliant moves.

Sportsman Dead

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—Captain George Sully, sportsman and business man and widely known from the Atlantic to the Pacific wherever lawn bowling and curling have their devotees, died here last night, aged ninety-five.

DISASTROUS THIRD DEPRIVES CORSAIRS OF FIRST PLUNDER

Pittsburgh Men Outhit Yankees, but Errors in Early Innings Give Hugmen Opportunity to Stow Away Opener—Buccaneers Lack Punch to Win After Own Mistakes

Babe Ruth Is Big Factor In New York's Victory

Bambino's Bat Is in Midst of Every Yank Rally—Hoyt and Kremer Fail to Stay Whole Distance — Moore and Miljus, Relief Pitchers, Work Well—42,000 See Game

By ALAN J GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor.

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburgh, Oct. 5.—In a close and exciting, but also closely played battle, that was considerably below the best standards of either team, the New York Yanks wrested a 5-4 victory from an erratic crew of Pittsburgh Pirates today in the opening game of the 1927 World series. A colorful crowd of close to 42,000, jamming Forbes Field to the edges, came out to see a battle of Yank siege guns and Pirate sharpshooters but its expectations were completely upset. Instead, they saw Ruth lead the Yank attack with singles instead of home runs, watched the Pirate defence crack wide open in the third inning to permit the American League champions to gain a commanding lead and witnessed the bombardment of the rival right-handed pitching aces Waite Hoyt and Ray Kremer, go into retirement.

PIRATES OUTHIT YANKS

The Pirates outhit the Yanks 9-6 They constantly threatened Hoyt and finally drove him from the box in the eighth, but, game as was their uphill fight, the Corsairs lacked the punch to win after their own mistakes, plus Kremer's wildness, had virtually tossed away the game in the third. Wilcy Moore and his "sinker ball" came to the rescue in the eighth as Hoyt fast was weakening and checked what little remained of the Pirates' hopes by retiring Earl Smith, with runners on first and third.

There were two out in the eighth when Joe Harris drove in Glenn Wright with the fourth Pirate run, but Moore, big and ungainly, hitched up his trousers, adjusted his cap, tossed one that Smith spanked into Lou Gehrig's glove for the final out of the inning and the end of Pittsburgh's last scoring opportunity.

It was a bitter dose of defeat for the Pirates to take, though they had none to blame but themselves. Their crack right-hander, Kremer, good in spots, but not up to his usual steadiness, was knocked out in the sixth, after which John Miljus completely stopped the Yanks, holding them to a single hit in four innings. The famous Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, were mainsprings of the attack, sharing the day's batting spotlight with their equally well-known rivals Ruth and Gehrig. But shakiness in the field during early innings and costly errors by George Grantham and Earl Smith gave the Yanks opportunities they seized quickly.

GEHRIG'S FLUKEY TRIPLE

The first Yank run in the opening inning was manufactured out of a line single by Ruth and a flukey triple by Gehrig, a short fly that Paul Waner held badly trying to catch, but failed in the attempt, the ball rolling to the right field fence.

This was mild compared to the third inning gifts to the Yanks. Ruth's second single was the only hit by New Yorkers in this frame but Grantham's boot of Koenig's roller, walks to Gehrig and Meusel, as the latter with the bases full, and a muff of a throw at the plate by Earl Smith, enabled three runs to clatter across.

Koenig, given a life by Granthm's error, was forced over with the first run in the innings. Ruth tallied on an infield force-out by Lazzeri, and Gehrig romped across the plate on Smith's error after being trapped off third base. The Pirates' catcher in his hurry, threw low to Traynor, then let the return toss slip through his fingers and roll to the Pirate dugout.

RUTH IN RALLIES

Ruth's bat was in the midst of every Yank rally. The big fellow outguessed the Pirates and upset expectations by shortening his swing and deliberately placing his one base drives, three of them, while Pirate outfielders were backed up against the fences prepared for long shots.

After scoring the first Yank run personally and aiding in the Pirate debacle in the third, Ruth was finally retired on a grounder to Harris in the fifth, but this put Koenig, who had doubled, on third base and in position to score a moment later on Gehrig's sacrifice fly. This was the last Yank run and as it turned out the winning margin, for Miljus, the big right-hander from Seattle, was invincible throughout the closing innings, striking out Combs, Meusel and Hoyt while permitting only a single safe blow.

FIRST INNING

Yankees—The crowd howled when Kremer walked out to the box Combs hit a long fly to Barnhart, who caught the ball near the scoreboard. Combs hit the first ball pitched. Koenig struck out, missing a curve for the third strike. Ruth singled sharply to right. Gehrig up. Ruth scored on Gehrig's three-base hit to right. It was a short fly and P. Waner overran it. P. Waner took Meusel's long fly. One run, two hits, no errors.

Pirates—Hoyt warmed up a little as the Yankees took the field. L. Waner was hit by a pitched ball which struck him on the shirt. Barnhart lined out to Ruth. P. Waner doubled to right, L. Waner going to third. The crowd was frantic. L. Waner scored on Wright's sacrifice fly to Combs, P. Waner going to third on the catch. Traynor filed out to Ruth who made a fine running catch. One run, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Yankees—Lazzeri sent up a high foul to Traynor. Dugan sent up a high one to Grantham. Collins walked, the fourth ball being low. Hoyt up. Grantham threw out Hoyt at first. This was the first assist of the game. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Barnhart went to second. Wright up. Wright filed to Combs, Barnhart going to third on the catch. It was a sacrifice fly for Wright. Traynor up. Combs made a fine catch of Traynor's short fly. One run, three hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Yankees—Lazzeri tried to bunt and the crowd gave him the laugh as he fouled the ball. Lazzeri got a two-bagger to left field fence. Dugan up. TWO INJURED IN INITIATION GAME

One Upper-Year-Men at U.B.C. in Hospital Seriously Hurt—Other Student Taken Home

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5.—Two upper-year-men of the University of British Columbia suffered injuries, one seriously and the other slightly when the Freshmen met the Upper Years in the Rugby game which serves as the initiation ceremony, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Beatty Maclean is at the general hospital with serious injuries to his head. James Dunn, the other injured student, was able to proceed to his home from the university. The university has been experimenting with different modes of initiation for several years. At one time the ceremony was abolished entirely, but for the past two years the system in vogue has been athletic contests between the Uppermen and Freshmen.

EAST DOMINATES SOUTHERN TENNIS

Tilden, Hunter and Alonzo Mow Down Western Opposition—Miss Williams and Mrs. Bundy Win

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—The "Big Three" of the Eastern invasion, William T. Tilden II, Francis T. Hunter and Manuel Alonzo, continued today their mowing down of Western opposition in their path towards Pacific Southwest tennis championships.

All three participated in singles play while Tilden and Hunter paired in doubles competition. Tilden romped to a 6-1, 6-1 win over Neil Brown, San Francisco player, while Hunter was forced to a stiffer defence in triumphing over Lionel "Tubby" Ogden, Stanford star. Hunter's victory was in straight sets, but the scores were 6-4, 6-3. Alonzo eliminated Henry Culley, eighteen-year-old Santa Barbara youth, who has been the sensation of the tournament, 6-2, 6-2.

Gerald Stratford, of San Francisco, Pacific Coast doubles champion, won two matches in the singles play. After downing Merle Manning, of Los Angeles, by 6-1, 6-1, in the morning, Stratford played a second match in the afternoon, defeating M. Sindorf, also of this city, but in the face of stiffer opposition. The scores were 6-4, 9-7.

Playing in the women's doubles got underway today with Mrs. Molla Mallory, national women's champion last year, and Miss Kea Bouman and Harriet Brewester, of Ponona College, in the feature match. The victory was by the convincing scores of 6-0, 6-1. May Sutton Bundy, who starred in national competition more than a decade ago, took as her partner a member of the younger generation of players, Miss Marian Williams, of La Jolla, Calif., and won from the Misses Barlow and Hoyt, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-1.

BASKETBALLERS ELECT OFFICERS

Rev. J. P. Westman Is President of Sunday School League—Entries to Close October 19

Rev. J. P. Westman, who for several years has been a leading figure on boys' work, both here and on the Mainland, was elected president of the Sunday School Basketball League at the annual meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last night.

Other officers chosen follow: Vice-president, Bob Whyte; secretary, Cyril Lee; treasurer, Bernard Jones; chairman of executive committee, J. D. McMurchie.

Entries will be called for the following divisions: Junior boys, junior girls, intermediate B boys, intermediate A girls, intermediate girls, senior men and senior girls.

All entries must be filed by October 19. This is the date set for the next meeting, when the schedule for the season will be drawn up.

There are several gymnasiums available and it is expected that the First United, Centennial, Mcmorial Hall and Fairfield gyms will be used. Teams will play their home games in their own gymnasiums.

Prospects appear bright for another successful season, and the Sunday School League should have some worthy champions to oppose their Mainland opponents at the close of the season. Victoria now holds a goodly number of British Columbia titles and the local teams are practising hard to keep up the reputation of former seasons.

According to information received in the city yesterday, the Chicago "Big Five" basketballers, who are rated by critics as the smoothest-working hoop aggregation in the Middle West, may come to Victoria and play an exhibition game. Their visit will be keenly looked forward to by followers of the game as well as by players.

Coach's Idea Easier Said Than Done

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Down in the dressing room between halves of the most important conference game of last season, a battered varsity basketball team grouped about its coach, awaiting criticism and instructions for their play in the crucial second half.

The men sat around endeavoring to conceal their very evident nervousness. It had been a great fight on their part during that first half and they were lagging behind. Their floor play had gone wrong, their passing was poor and their guarding was woefully weak.

Finally the coach, who was walking around like a nervous cat, spoke:

"Look here, you fellows," he snapped. "You've got to dynamite 'em! D'ya hear? Dynamite 'em! The first one of you who fails to cover his man comes out. Get that? Now go out there and remember, DYNAMITE 'EM!

That was all. Not a word of intelligent instruction. Nothing as to team strategy. Just the application of "dynamite" without the details of procedure. Baseball managers are strangely like this at times also.

Tillicums 5, Hudson's Bay 2.
Rennie & Taylor 2, Navy 0.

NEXT WEEK'S GAMES

Tillicums vs. Rennie & Taylor; Navy vs. Garrison; Saanich United vs. Hudson's Bay.

Rennie & Taylor, Tillicums and the Garrison midweek soccer aggregations went into a tie for first berth as a result of yesterday's opening matches. At Beacon Hill the bakers accounted for the sailor eleven by 2-0, while the clubmen threw off the second half challenge of the Hudson's Bay and emerged victors by a 5-2 count at the Royal Athletic Park. The Garrison signalized their return to the league in the form of a 7-2 victory over the Saanich United at Work Point. Good crowds witnessed the games.

TILLICUMS DRAW BAYS

After being on the wrong end of a 3-0 count at half-time, the Hudson's Bay came back strong in the second half and scored two goals in the first twenty-five minutes and threatened the Tillicums. The clubmen rallied, however, and registered a pair to make victory certain in the last ten minutes.

Play in the first half favored the winners, and after many dangerous rushes Rigby found the net with a hot drive at close range. The Tillicums were displaying a good combination game and gave the Bays' defence plenty of worry. Bissell put the clubmen two up when he beat Shrimpton about ten minutes from half-time. Stan Wright, centre forward of the winners, scored a pretty goal just before the rest interval on a solo effort.

On the resumption of play the Bays went on the offensive with the Tillicum goal being subjected to dangerous attacks. King broke into the score column for the departmentals after twenty-five minutes of play when he found the net after receiving a pass from Addie. Pressure on the Tillicum goal was still in evidence, and when Fish beat Sallaway with a long drive it began to look as if his teammates were going to tie up the score. Two corners in quick succession were forced, but the Bays' scoring rampage was over. Claude Hamer made the count 4-2 when he beat Shrimpton with a high shot.

Bissell put the game on ice a few minutes later with a beautiful close-in shot.

Hewison refereed, and the teams were:

Tillicums—Sallaway; Burns and Hume; Sewell, Hocking and Davis; Cann, Hamer, Wright, Bissell and Rigby.

Hudson's Bay—Shrimpton; Oakmand and Smith; Addie, Woodley and Cull; Fish, Raven, King, Mair and Collier.

BAKERS BEAT NAVY

One goal in each half was the best a short-handed Rennie & Taylor team could do against the Navy. The bakers played with nine men for the best part of the first half and finished the match with ten. The opening goal came from a breakaway in the early moments of the match, when Davis beat Barr with a nice drive after receiving a pass from Jack Taylor. The Navy attacks in the first half of the game looked dangerous, but the sailors found it impossible to tag the net.

With the resumption play the winners had control of the game, but had to be content with one additional goal, Taylor sending in a good centre which Davis headed to Speak who tapped the ball into the net.

Fred Oliver refereed, and the taems were:

Rennie & Taylor—Lomas; Tupman and Newman; Borde, J. H. Stewart and D. Stewart; Taylor, Hay, Speak and Davis.

Navy—Barr; Dyson and Temple; C. White, Roberts and Prizeau; Stone, Poole, Kerr, Marr and Gleave.

GARRISON WIN

The scoring boots of Kemp, Bichard and Craig, three bustling forwards of the Garrison, were too much for the Saanich United, and the Tommies registered a 7-2 victory. The Garrison trotted out a strong team and one that will need watching.

Saanich United, a new club in the loop, turned out a bunch of youngsters lacking experience, but with plenty of aggressiveness. With a few more matches this new entry should make a good showing.

The end of the first half saw the score sheet reading 2-2, Bichard and Craig scoring for the winners, while Tooby netted a pair for the boys from Saanich. A penalty for hands gave the losers their first counter, while the second was registered during a scrimmage in front of goal.

In the second half of the game the Garrison dominated the play and added five goals, Bichard and Kemp getting two each and Craig one. The losers, who forced the issue with occasional breakaways, lacked finish in front of goal, and wasted their opportunities with erratic shooting.

MacKay refereed and the teams were:

Garrison—Lindgren; Wallace and Farrar; Quinn, Spiers and Simpson; Newton, Bichard, Kemp, Craig and Pocock.

Saanich United—Spellar; Love and Simpson; Barry, Ask and Hoggarth; Stonier, Hawkes, Tooby, Ralph and Brown.

BRANCH AGENCY TRANSFERS MADE

Consolidation of Deposits Will Be Completed to Post Office Department by End of This Week

The work of transfering the control of the Dominion Government Savings Bank branch agency of the Department of Finance to the control of the Postmaster in Victoria has now been in progress for the last two weeks. Mr. A. S. Porthier, acting superintendent of Postoffice Savings Bank at Ottawa, is in the city and is co-operating with Mr. D. B. McConnan, the assistant receiver-general, in effecting the transfer. The transfer will be officially effected on October 10, and thereafter all depositors will make their deposits at the money order and savings bank wickets at the Postoffice.

Depositors of the Dominion Bank who have so far not attended to their transfers are asked to do so during the present week, so that all transfers will be effected by Monday next. What these transfers mean is that the Postoffice Department is taking over control of the Dominion Government Savings Bank.

STANCE AT TOP OF SWING

There are two important things to remember about the top of the swing. Unless the body and club are set just right at this stage of the proceedings the chances of getting a sweet shot are not good. The shoulders present their full width view to the hole, the result, of course, of a complete pivot. The club is horizontal and pointing in the direction of the line of flight. The right elbow is tucked in close to the body. With this position everything is set just right for the down swing.

All four are Australians. The plane is due at Mills' Field next Sunday from Seattle.

COMMUNIST ARREST AT A.F.L. ROOM

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—The arrest here today at the door of the convention room of the American Federation of Labor of Sid Bush, said to be a Communist propaganda agent, and the seizure of a mass of Communist documents, frustrated, according to police officers, a plot to influence action of the labor organization. Bush was booked on suspicion of criminal syndicalism. Police said officers of the American Federation of Labor, all of whom were opposed to the Communist activities, were warned of the alleged plot following Bush's arrest.

The House of Rogues

By CHRISTOPHER B. BOOTH

CHAPTER XII

Pond Bay was a quaint fishing village, the simple, unpretentious buildings—some of them almost disreputable in their shabbiness—clustered snugly together about the curving shore of the bay which had given it the name. The moment that one stepped from the train to the station platform built of crushed clam shells, it was an established fact that this was a fishing settlement; even did not one's eyes stray across the tracks to the harbor where the boats bobbled merrily at anchor, there was the smell of fish in the air.

The eleven-five from New York, a bob-tailed, two-coach train on week-days when passengers were few, nosed wearily into Pond Bay. Two passengers emerged from the forward car; one of them was a short, thick-set man of nearly fifty. His sensible, unobstrusive sack suit of salt-and-pepper gray was well fitted to his muscled body; his slightly greying mustache was cut with a crisp straightness of line level with an equally straight mouth, topping a firm but not conspicuous jaw. A pair of calm grey eyes looked out through the rimless lenses of glasses which hooked behind his ears.

His companion was very young, perhaps a shade under twenty; his hair was a fiery red and a thick profusion of freckles covered his rather round face; there were even freckles on his forehead. His eyes were never still, always darting this way and that and overlooking nothing. He had, regarding everything, the keen, eager curiosity of youth.

"Gee, but it's swell out here, J.B.," he exclaimed, throwing out his thin chest and drinking deep of the sea air. "Just think of this bein' only a hundred miles from New York an' the wilted-collar brigade! Mighty good of you, J.B., to let me come along with you."

Jasper Baskerville,—more conveniently, "J.B.," to those who knew him—smiled good naturedly.

"Glad you like it, Tommy," he answered; "knew you would. Great place, Long Island; finest place on the map in my opinion. Always glad to have you along, lad. You've been a help to me more than once I can tell you; the only thing I regret is that this isn't much of a case this time. Don't think there'll be much chance for those sharp wits of yours."

Tommy Oliver grinned in frank delight at his companion; there was nothing that pleased him so much as the approval of J.B., whom he worshipped as his own personal hero. Some day he hoped to wear, by reason of the older man's tutelage, the same sort of a gold badge that was pinned to J.B.'s vest, away out of sight and seldom displayed.

It was an odd sort of relationship that existed between the two; five years before it had befallen Jasper Baskerville's lot to gather the evidence which had sent Tommy Oliver's "old man" down to Atlanta for a ten-year stretch—and that was when he had found Tommy, then an unhealthy specimen of the Cherry Hill slums, just ready to begin an under-graduate course in the School of Crime.

There had been something about Tommy's red hear, freckled face and audacious blue eyes that had reached the heart of the hardened man-hunter. J. B. seldom acted upon impulses but an impulse caused him to rescue Tommy Oliver from the kindly intentions of the Children's Society. It had, of course, been his intention to adopt Tommy but temporarily, but Tommy's grin, his worshipful loyalty saw to it that the arrangement was made permanent.

Tommy's early training had been all toward an inborn and unrelenting hatred for "the cops," but his association with J.B., greying veteran of the Secret Service, had changed his viewpoint. He had learned a tremendous respect for the law, and the methods of enforcing it was a subject which never wearied him.

Jasper Baskerville was a bachlor, and, that Tommy might have a home, had long since moved from a hotel to a four-room apartment where Tommy, ridiculing any such superfluous idea as hiring a housekeeper, did the chores.

No hour was too late for J.B. to come home from "a case" to find Tommy out of bed, ready with sandwiches and a steaming pot of coffee guaranteed to keep the detective awake until he had disgorged down to the pettiest detail the account of his operations.

Perhaps it was intuition, reinforced by an early acquaintance with the underworld psychology, that made Tommy so apt in making pertinent suggestions; more than once the boy's eagerly racing mind had suggested just the right thing. He had imagination and sometimes it carried him too far, but one thing was certain, it always carried him somewhere; more often he was right than wrong.

"This kid," J.B. often told himself, "is just naturally a born detective. Give him time and give him experience, he'll be one of the best in the business." At such times, too, J.B. would speculate on what might have happened had not the boy been abruptly uprooted from the underworld; such nimble wits might have been the making of a master criminal.

During the past couple of years, J.B. had taken to letting Tommy accompany him on "a case." At first this was only to make the kid happy, but Tommy was undeniably a help rather than a hindrance. At shadowing he was becoming a past master; inherent shrewdness greatly aided by his youth, his freckles and his grin. Who would think of him in any sort of a detective capacity?

J.B.'s eyes searched the harbor-front street, and he frowned.

"I like that!" he grunted. "This fellow Strawn said he would have a car at the station to meet us. Wonder how the devil we're going to get out to the place; it's my guess that a taxi is something unknown in Pond Bay."

"What about hoofin' it, J.B.?"

The other jerked his thumb in the direction of the high ridge where the backbone of Long Island comes to a narrowing termination.

"You may like that climb, Tommy, but you're nineteen and I'm fifty. The village here is on the Sound side of the island and it's something like three miles, up that ridge and down again, to the ocean where we're headed for. I'm not even sure of the precise direction."

Tommy stared out toward the harbor.

"That looks like the harbor to me. No?"

"That's Long Island Sound, lad; see that grey film looming up over there? That's the Connecticut shore; just about yonder would be New London, where we nabbed the Tyler brothers last Winter. You see, Tommy, the Sound is on one side and the Atlantic on the other—but we won't hold any lessons in geography just now. I'll get to a telephone, call up Strawn and find out why in the name of all reason he hasn't kept his word and sent down a car to fetch us out."

Tommy nodded.

"Queer looking bunch of shacks, ain't they, J.B.?" he mused. "Looks like a set for a movie, don't it? Quite a handful of boats if you ask me; bet you some of them is wet with something besides salt water. Eh, J.B.?"

"You mean rum-running?" The detective smiled. "Wouldn't be surprised, Tommy, but, thank Heaven, that's one kind of law enforcement that I'm not called on to tackle. . . . Well, let's get to that telephone."

One of the frame shacks across the street advertised the information that it contained a drug store and a drug store can generally be counted on to furnish telephoning facilities. So Jasper Barkerville trod briskly over the crackling surface of broken clam shells which paved the thoroughfare. The street was empty; such of the population as were not out for the day's catch were along the wharves, mending nets, repairing lobster traps, or looking over their boat engines.

SAYS APPLES NOT CAUSE OF ACIDITY

British Surgeon Declares Fruit Actually Lowers Acid Condition of Human Body

By DR. FREDERICK KINCAID, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

There is an old idea that the eating of apples causes "acidity," and on this account many people refrain from using this very valuable food.

Like many other superstitions of this kind, the idea has no foundation in fact and modern science has proved conclusively that apples actually lower the acidity of the body.

People suffering from indigestion, rheumatism, gout, chronic inflammation of the kidneys, bladder, etc., have imagined, and have been warned, that their condition prohibited the use of fruit, but this is altogether a mistake and for these very troubles apples are of particular value in the diet since, not only do they reduce acidity, but they strongly favor and assist elimination from the body of the poisons which are the real cause of these conditions.

Unripe apples, in many cases, contain substances which are disturbing to the digestion, and it is well known that it is unwise to eat them in this unmatured state, but ripe apples are the healthiest food there is.

Some people will say that, whether the acidity idea has been disproved or not, they have found by practical experience that raw apples do not agree with them, but in these cases it is not the apples which are at fault but the other foods which have been taken with them, or rather the combination of these foods with apples.

Those with robust digestions can, without harm, eat fruit in association with other foods, and apples much more readily than any other kind, but as a general rule most people would be wise not to take any fresh fruit in combination with cereals or other starchy foods.

Because in many cases the combinations of apples with starches does not agree, is no reason why the apples should be blamed or omitted any more than the starchy foods. On the contrary, it is usually the case that much too much is taken of the latter and not enough of apples. Apples are a real essential and nothing is of greater value for health than a habit of fitting in at least one or two ripe apples every day at suitable times in relation to the rest of the diet.

When they are cooked apples do not clash in the same way with other foods and, though they have not quite the same value because their vitamins are largely destroyed by heat, they still remain one of the most useful of foods on account of their other nutrient constituents and because they promote intestinal elimination and prevent constipation, which is the common cause of so many ailments. Since apples can be used to advantage both raw and cooked, they have the widest possible use. In the raw state there is nothing nicer than ripe apples by themselves and they are the most valuable of all fruits as a foundation for salads. In the cooked state there are innumerable ways of serving them attractively, and it is then possible to use those which are not fully ripe or which are of varieties not satisfactory for eating raw. The reason for this is that the cooking process converts the unattractive and somewhat indigestible starchy content into fruit sugar, which has a delightful flavor and is very beneficial and readily assimilated.

It is no exaggeration to say that apples are, of all foods, the most widely useful and at the same time the most satisfactory and valuable.

Health and Diet Advice

HUMAN ENERGY

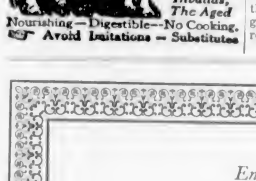
The specific force assumed to account for life is called "vital force." It is generally considered as distinctly different from other forces in nature, as manifested in the inorganic world. This energy in the bodies of animals and man does not seem to come from the same chemical changes taking place in plant life; it appears to be something inherent at birth, which leaves the body at death.

Food does not seem to be a necessary factor in its production, as fasters living many days without food often manifest more energy than when eating. I recently observed a child of ten years of age who fasted for five weeks without food, whose strength and vitality were considerably greater than before beginning the fast. She exhibited the muscular strength of one of mature years, although suffering from tubercular meningitis. How is this possible in any case if bodily vitality depends upon the food supply?

After many years of observation and experimentation with both the sick and the well, I am convinced that vital force and the mind may function through the organism without regard to food material. The ease and ability to do this is dependent upon the state of health of the physical body.

A diseased body interferes more or less with the expression of this energy. When a person is said to be of low vitality, it is really only because there is considerable obstruction to the normal flow of vital energy, and not because of a lack of it. When encumbrances are removed, the energy seems to increase, but this is only in the same way that a criminal is able to use his strength to better advantage when the ball and chain are removed from his ankles. If this is true, you have only to make the body a suitable instrument for the expression of vitality. This can be accomplished through dieting, exercising, and a good body-building physical culture regime.

The material body is made out of material substances, and the elements necessary for repair and growth must come from foods containing a proper proportion of the requisite substances. With due respect to the opinions of mental scientists, we know that the various tissues of the body must be supplied by the blood with elements which are extracted from food which has been converted through the chemical processes of digestion. These material cells would be only dead flesh if they were not activated by that cosmic force which, when manifesting in the body, we call human energy.



T. P. O'Connor Still Writing on 79th Birthday

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Right Hon. Thomas "Tay Pay" O'Connor, M.P. for the Scotland Division of Liverpool since 1885 and noted journalist, is celebrating his seventy-ninth birthday.

"The one drawback of old age," Mr. O'Connor said, "is that you survive so many of your earliest and dearest affections."

Except for twinges of rheumatism, Mr. O'Connor is in excellent health and he still continues to tap out copy on a typewriter in his office day after day. Incidentally, it was he who introduced the typewriter into the House of Commons, forty years ago, because even the hardiest old-time printer was baffled by his handwriting.

DRUMS OF DESERT NOW AT COLUMBIA

Screen Version of Zane Grey's Story of Wild Indians of Plains Shows Today

In "Drums of the Desert," Paramount's screen version of Zane Grey's "Desert Bound," showing at the Columbia Theatre today, is again told the story of the Navajo Indians that so dominated that earlier Zane Grey production, "The Vanishing American."

In the current production the tale is told, however, from the white man's angle, with Warner Baxter, in the role of John Curry, the friend of the Indian. It is the story of oil that was found under the desert lands of the reservation, of the attempts of thieving whites to gain possession at the expense of the Indians, of the red men's shielding their ancient altars and of Curry's defence of the Indians.

In this production, Warner Baxter returns to Westerns. In this production, too, does Paramount introduce to the American screen its newest acquisition from Europe, Marietta Millner, former UFA player, who makes her local debut as the only white girl in the picture. All Indian parts are played by Indians from the Navajo Reservation, who enact on the screen the stirring drama in which they themselves took part only a few years ago.

CAPITOL THEATRE Miss Talmadge's "Camille," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is a gorgeously gowned charmer who sets the style for the most spendthrift class of Paris. And she wears no hose with any of her evening gowns. Neither does she powder her limbs. They are "au naturel." If the celebrated "Lady of the Camellias" lived in the present age her style creations would make all Paris gasp and would tax the genius of the French capital's most renowned fashion designers. Miss Talmadge contends. In line with this theory, the star is introducing a wealth of fads in her new starring vehicle. In addition to the regular feature picture, "Camille," there are three high class acts of vaudeville, which include the De Cecilettos in a novelty comedy and dance presentation, Denham and Wallace, the ukulele Hounds, in a jazzy selection of popular airs, and Miss Louie Fisher, a dainty monologist.

DOMINION THEATRE The "Novarro Hilt" may become a standard term in the lexicon of fencing, just as the Corbett Glove is in boxing or the McClellan Saddle in riding. For the famous screen star has invented a new handle for a rapier that will, experts say, prove a remarkable aid in the sport of the foils. Novarro invented the new hilt for fencing foils while working on the duel scenes in "Lovers," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational drama of modern Spain now showing at the Dominion Theatre. Novarro fights a sensational duel with swords in the new picture with John Miljan. Both are experienced fencers, Novarro making fencing history on the screen in "Scaramouche." Alice Terry plays the heroine in the new story, a dramatic tale of the perils of scandal for modern society. In a graphic romance the audience sees the seeds of slander grow and enmesh a family, wrecking human lives and human souls. The story depicts Spain as it is today, an ultra modern country whose cities rival Paris for gaiety.

COLISEUM THEATRE The fight picture at the Coliseum this week is drawing capacity houses, and patrons are forced to stand in line to await their turn. The fight picture is a great success; it is very clear and was well taken, so that not a blow is missed by anyone. The excitement is at a high pitch in the seventh round of the fight, when loud cheering can be heard at every performance. The management advises the patrons or those who can, to come to the afternoon performance, and thereby avoid the evening rush. The vaudeville is the best that this theatre has offered for some time. "Soft Cushions, the screen attraction, starring Douglas MacLean, is a rollicking tale of the Orient, providing a comedy setting entirely new to the screen. In order to achieve the maximum pictorial beauty without overshadowing the action, each setting received unusual care in its designing and construction. The services of Ben Carre, noted French artist and architect, were secured for this task.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE "Her Honor the Governor," showing at the Playhouse tonight, is a great woman's picture with a powerful appeal as well to the masculine gender. The romance is of the double-barrelled variety, with Greta Von Rue, a real "find," and the personable Carrol Nye enacting the juvenile roles. Pauline Frederick has the stellar role. Charles Courtier is himself again this week. Last week it was hard to recognize him in his excellent beery make-up as Lawyer Baum, but this week he is playing the role of Jack Marshland, the husband of Betty (Peggy Lewis) in that screaming farce, "The Midnight Janitor," which is the stage attraction at the Playhouse all this week.

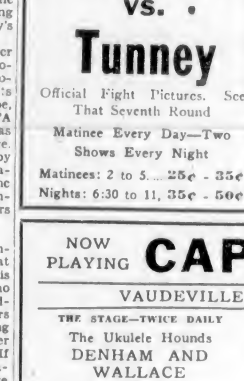
Co-Optimists Will Play 18th Century Comedy Next Friday



MISS CLARE VINCENT
With the Co-Optimist Comedy Company at the Crystal Garden.

The versatility of the Co-optimist Players is indicated in the choice of a play for this week's Friday night entertainment at the Crystal Garden. This will be a costume farce entitled "A Capital Match," which, in addition to being funny, will have an added advantage in that its presentation calls for the picturesque costumes and settings of the eighteenth century. The play demonstrates how an amiable fool turns matchmaker for an ulterior motive. Needless to say his actions lead to his own undoing. The cast includes Mr. and Mrs. Legge-Willis, Miss Clare Vincent and Mr. Richard Blomfield.

An additional attraction is to be offered on Friday evening immediately preceding the stage play. This will be in the form of two dances by Miss Nellie Thacker, a graduate of the Cornish School, Seattle. The Crystal Garden orchestra will also render selected concert numbers under the leadership of Mr. William Tickle.

DUNCAN, Oct. 5.—The regular monthly meeting of the Consolidated School Board was held here last night.

The principal also asked for authority to engage a substitute teacher for three days in each month, so as to permit better supervision of the various classrooms. This was agreed to.

Trustee Fox reported that he would be unable to attend the Trustees' Convention, and the chairman of the board was authorized to appoint a substitute in his place.

A complaint regarding transportation matters was referred to the transportation committee for action.

The board will apply to the Department for a supply of acacia trees to beautify the school grounds.

STEEL FRAME PEN TO BE PROVIDED

Public Will Be Afforded Opportunity of Seeing How Breeders Catch Foxes

Arrangements have been made to provide a steel frame pen to be used at the coming fox fur show in this city towards the end of the present month. Messrs. Rant & Kerr offered to put up such a pen for the purpose and their offer has been accepted with thanks by the Vancouver Island Silver Fox Breeders' Association through its executive, which met at the Y.M.C.A. rooms last evening.

This steel pen will afford the public the opportunity to watch the competition for the catching of foxes according to most approved methods employed by breeders.

The judges appointed for this contest are Rev. Montague Bruce, Mr. W. Miller Higgs and Mr. J. W. Bell.

The entries for the exhibition, which will be held here on October 26, 27 and 28, are coming in now and show that there will be a large number of foxes on exhibition representing the breeders of nearly all the provinces of the Dominion as well as others outside of Canada.

Yesterday four entries were received from Saskatchewan. There are also two entries from Washington State; five from Alberta, and two which will come all the way from Prince Edward Island.

Canada Not Competing In West Africa Trade

West African trade is entirely different from that of South Africa, and the two have no economic connections or interrelations, writes Trade Commissioner Douglas S. Cole, Bristol, in the forthcoming issue of The Commercial Intelligence Journal. The west coast has a small European population with a comparatively high per capita expenditure and an African population of some thirty-two millions with a relatively low per capita expenditure.

Foodstuffs suitably packed and low priced are of great interest. Flour in barrels is a good possibility; but the United States have this trade well in hand, and up to now no Canadian firms have been able to compete effectively. Almost all stores in West Africa are general stores, and therefore buy and handle everything—drygoods, provisions hardware, etc. It is said that Canadian export chocolates are in quality and finish unquestionably ahead of other lines on the West African market. Preserved fruits are much in demand, but supplies must be forthcoming regularly and consistently year after year. Preserved vegetables, tinned milk, and golden syrup present a large market.

Motor lorries with trailers are rapidly increasing in number. Since the speed limit is twenty-five miles an hour and the maximum gross weight allowed on the roads is ten and a half tons the demand is for the smaller types.

The great bulk of the trade is under the control of English merchant houses, who have chain stores established in every considerable centre. These form a connecting link by means of which the producer may effectively and without much financial risk reach the eventual customer.

DANCE AT LUXTON

No sear, no pain, no pinching from tight shoes any more. You can dance or walk in comfort. Be sure you use only Putnam's Corn Extractor. Satisfaction guaranteed. Sold by druggists everywhere. Refuse a substitute for Putnam's—it's the best. (Advt.)

STADACONA PARK

HAVE you ever driven or walked through this pretty residential section with its attractive park? Stadacona Park is noted for its beautiful flower beds and well kept lawns. It was originally part of the extensive estate of the late Major Dupont, one of Victoria's leading citizens of a generation ago.

The park is well worth a visit, also that portion of the adjacent residential section lying along the ridge which extends down from the highest point in the city, off Rockland Avenue, across Fort and along Belmont Avenue to Pembroke. The fine paved streets, wide boulevards and beautiful shade trees are as attractive as any in the city of Oak Bay. Being one of the highest points in the city the district is particularly free from fog and dampness, an important consideration from a health point of view. Splendid views are obtained from many points. Stadacona Park district is convenient to three car lines, good schools, and is little more than one mile from the centre of the city. The district is served with gas.

BROKERS' LOANS MUCH INCREASED

UNEXPECTEDLY LARGE SUM OF EXCHANGE INDEBTEDNESS ANNOUNCED

Resultant Selling Wave Is Resisted—Final Quotations Irregular—Bonds Strong

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Splendid resistance to the shock of selling inspired the unexpectedly large increase in stock exchange member loans was shown by today's stock market. Execution of a large quota of overnight selling orders carried prices down from one to nearly five points at the opening, and some further liquidation developed on the marking up of the call money renewal rate to 4 1-2 per cent; but good buying support was provided and a recovery set in reaching its climax in the last few minutes of trading. Final quotations were irregular, gains and losses ranging all the way from one to twelve points.

Trading showed a marked falling off in volume. General Motors, new, was again the active feature, closing unchanged at 136 3-4 after having dipped to 133 3-4. Report of record breaking third-quarter earnings was a sustaining influence. United States Steel common was under pressure, closing 1 1-2 points net lower at 148 1-2. Woolworth also fell back two points despite the increase of more than seven per cent in September sales. American Tobacco, Sterling Products, Union Carbide, also were conspicuously heavy.

Speculation for the advance was aggressively conducted in a wide assortment of issues including American Can, American Express, American Linseed, General Electric, Interborough Rapid Transit, Packard Motor, Pittsburgh Coal, and Tobacco Products. Rails were inclined to heaviness, New York Central losing two points. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

In the foreign exchange market, German marks established a new high for the year at 23.85 cents, in reflection of the raising of the Reichsbank rediscount rates, and Italian lire crossed 5 1-2c.

The trend of prices continued upward in today's bond market when a fair volume of business was well scattered over a broad variety of issues. Italian obligations and domestic public utilities commanded the major attention, while there were signs of hesitancy in the railway groups.

Winnipeg Grain Letter

(Supplied by Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—The local wheat market opened about one cent up this morning, the October touching $1.38 with a few belated shorts covering on the continued unfavorable weather over Western Canada, while offerings were scarce. Chicago refused to follow our bulge, and there was no export business of consequence, which induced longs to liquidate and take profits, and the market sagged off under a poor demand, October getting up against the daily bids, and some buying against these brought about small upturns, but there was no real strength shown. At times there was a little unwinding of spreads, selling October against purchases of December and May, and the deferred months were relatively stronger than the October most of the day. Rains were general in Saskatchewan yesterday, and it was still raining early this morning. Southern Alberta had little showers or snow flurries, but the northern half of the province was dry, and there was no precipitation in Alberta this morning. The forecast for the three provinces was for becoming colder with scattered showers or snow flurries. Country offerings of wheat Tuesday was 597,559 bushels despite all the rains. There were 1,924 cars of wheat inspected yesterday, of which 764 graded contract. There was a little better tone to the export market with a moderate business overnight, but the local demand was not as good, and spreads on most grades were lower. The demand was especially poor for two, three and four wheat, mills still being after number one. Liverpool was weaker than due, closing 3-8 to 3-4 up. European weather is now reported as favorable for the concluding of threshing. Argentine markets are weak with conditions very favorable for the growing crop. It will be noticed that Buenos Aires wheat, old and new, has now gone to a discount under Chicago, while Winnipeg October is selling at a premium of about six cents over Chicago December. This market is apparently out of line for export business in large volume. Should the weather improve we look for wheat to sell off. Winnipeg futures closed 3-4 to 1-2 lower, October having made a fair recovery in the closing moments.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Over 4,000,000 Tons Of Shipping Handled Here in Seven Months

Following exceptionally heavy tourist business this Summer, the shipping figures for the month of September show a sharp decline when compared with August and July. Last month's figures, however, are far in advance of the early Spring months. Only the exceptionally heavy months of July and August surpass September in number of ships and total tonnage, according to reports issued yesterday by Mr. A. E. Todd, industrial adviser to the city council.

A total of 319 vessels was handled at this port last month. They were of 579,232 registered tons. This is a decrease of ninety-six ships and 217,403 registered tons.

Shipping handled at Victoria for the seven months ending September, passed the 4,000,000-ton mark, however. Mr. Roger Pinneo started keeping a record of the port tonnage last March, and since that time no fewer than 2,424 ships of 4,105,333 registered tons have been handled at this port.

Inwards last month 169 vessels of 297,472 registered tons docked here, while outwards there were 150 vessels of 281,760 registered tons.

The number of ships with their registry, inwards, are as follows: United States, eighty of 114,031 registered tons; Japanese, seven of 31,197 registered tons; Holland, one of 5,168 registered tons; Norway, one of 2,939 registered tons; Canadian, seventy-three of 109,623 registered tons, and United Kingdom, seven of 34,514 registered tons.

Outwards, the number of vessels, with their registry, are as follows: United States, seventy-three of 117,875 registered tons; Canadian, sixty-four of 94,895 registered tons; United Kingdom, six of 37,992 registered tons, and Japanese, seven of 30,998 registered tons.

Ship Chandlers Preparing for Bigger Business

Increased activity along the waterfront is reflected in the decision of the Ship Chandlers, Ltd., formerly Peter McQuade & Son, to increase their stock of goods by about thirty-five per cent.

The firm has a large building on Wharf Street and is thus well situated to take care of whatever warehousing needs the increase in stock will entail.

The impetus given to fishing along the West Coast of the Island by the comparatively new pilchard industry contributes largely to the acceleration in marine business here. Other factors are increase in the number of deep-sea ships calling at this port and in the logging business on Vancouver Island.

TUG RESCUES SINKING SHIP

STEAM SCHOONER BARBARA C. PICKED UP IN DISTRESS OFF COLUMBIA RIVER

Vessel Runs Ashore, Opens Seams and Damages Rudder—Carried Lumber Cargo

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 5. — The steam schooner, Barbara C, owned by W. R. Chamberlain, of San Francisco, and carrying 1,325,000 feet of lumber, was picked up, in distress, twelve miles off the Columbia River lighthouse, today, by a bar tug, after she had grounded on the Grays Harbor bar, opening her seams and damaging her rudder. The vessel was en route from Grays Harbor to San Francisco.

Captain H. K. Winter succeeded in working the vessel south until off the Columbia River, where it appeared as if the crew would not be able to keep the vessel afloat longer. Distress signals were sent out and the vessel was finally located by the tug and towed in.

Notice to Mariners

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tides rise or fall continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

WHALING SHIPS AGAIN IN PORT

With three vessels already in harbor and three others of the fleet on their way back to this port, the whaling season off the Queen Charlotte Islands is practically ended.

The Rose Harbor detachment of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation's fleet, the White, Brown and Black, are all docked here; while the Naden Harbor establishment, the Green, Grant and Blue, are expected at the end of the week.

YARROWS HAVE BUSY PERIOD

Princess Kathleen to Be Drydocked This Morning at Esquimalt—Mina Brea Released

Yarrows Limited are still experiencing a busy period at the Esquimalt repair yards and drydock.

The Mina Brea left the drydock yesterday evening, and was towed to the outfitting wharf, where repairs will be completed.

This morning the C.P.R. passenger steamer, Princess Kathleen, will enter the dock for cleaning and painting. There will thus be two B.C. Coast Service steamers in the dock at the same time, since the Princess Charlotte is undergoing repairs in the innermost section of the graving basin.

The Charlotte will be floated out of the dock at the end of the week, Captain J. W. Troup, manager of the B.C. Coast Service of the C.P.R. stated yesterday.

The R.C.N. Thiepval was released from the marine railway at noon yesterday, and the Princess Beatrice will be hauled out this morning for cleaning and painting.

ORIENT LINERS ALTER SAILING

AMERICAN MAIL SHIPS TO LEAVE THIS PORT ON MONDAYS AFTER NOV. 7

Two Vessels of Same Line to Be in Port at Same Day at Fortnightly Intervals

Effective with the sailing of the President Madison on November 7, vessels of the American Mail Line will depart on their westbound voyage to the Orient from this port on Mondays instead of Tuesdays.

Notice that all westbound sailings would be advanced one day was received here yesterday.

Thus, in future one American Mail Liner will dock from the Orient on Monday morning, and another will sail for Orient ports on Monday afternoon, at fortnightly intervals.

Vessels departing from Victoria will arrive at Yokohama in accordance with the present schedule. Arrival and departure dates at Oriental ports will remain effective as per schedule, excepting the departures from Manila, which will hereafter be set back one day, allowing three days stopover at Manila for ships bound for San Francisco.

This will necessitate arrivals at Hong Kong one day later than shown on the schedule of eastbound voyages. Time in port at Hong Kong will be reduced to one day, and voyages to San Francisco will be continued in accordance with the schedule.

Intellectual men are most popular as prospective husbands, according to a census taken at one women's college, with home-lovers and athletes as a second choice.

ELAINE TO BE LAUNCHED SOON

New Vessel for Vancouver-Nanaimo Route Will Take Waters of Clyde Shortly

ANOTHER DELAY FOR PATRICIA

Launching of the Princess Elaine will take place at the Clydebank yards of John Brown Company on October 26. The B.C. Coast Steamship Service has not been advised of the selection for the christening ceremony, but it is assured a representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway will go to Scotland for the event.

Captain J. W. Troup says he learns from Clydebank that the ship is ready for launching, so that the work is well ahead of schedule. The Princess Elaine will be delivered in time for the Summer service of the Vancouver-Nanaimo route in 1928.

Coincident with the report of progress on the Elaine comes intimation of delay in the return of the Princess Patricia to the same service. The company had been promised by the C. A. Parsons Company that her new turbine would be shipped for delivery this month, but there have been delays, and this will not be practicable until next month, the exact date being indefinite.

Under the circumstances, the Charmer will remain in the Vancouver-Nanaimo route later than had been expected when the schedule was revised, following the forced withdrawal of the Princess Patricia from service, which has left her idle for the Summer season.

LAUNCH OWNERS WATCH PROJECT

PROPOSED INSPECTION OF GASOLINE BOATS AWAKENS INTEREST

Explosions Focus Attention on Installation of Gasoline Tanks on Small Craft

The recent announcement that Parliament may be asked at the next session to pass legislation requiring that all gasoline boats be subject to inspection, has awakened much interest among motorboat owners on the Coast.

The project was recently taken up at Ottawa by Mr. J. A. Thomas, provincial fire marshal, who asked that marine regulations be amended so as to provide for the proposed inspection.

As yet no details of the regulations Mr. Thomas will recommend to the Department of Marine and Fisheries have been received here, but it is believed that they will deal largely with the installation of gasoline tanks.

Of the eight explosions that have occurred on gasoline boats on the Coast during the past year, several have been ascribed to faulty gasoline tanks.

It is possible that regulations will be suggested providing for the carrying of life-belts or life-preservers adequate for the number of people carried on a launch. It is also possible that the carrying capacity of small craft will be laid down by Government inspectors, should the recommendation of the fire marshal be accepted.

The large number of accidents on the Coast with small craft seems to point to the necessity of some sort of inspection and regulation. Depending on the lengths to which the Government is prepared to go and the consequent expense to the motorboat owner entailed in the proposed regulations, the idea of an official inspection of all craft will likely be endorsed in marine circles.

CAPTAIN AND SEVEN MEN SPEND WEEK IN OPEN BOAT ON ATLANTIC

Three-Masted American Schooner Develops Leaks When Battered by Gales

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 5.—Weak from privations suffered for almost a week in an open boat, Captain E. O. Hunter and seven men, the crew of the three-masted American schooner, Golden Rod, arrived here today.

The schooner, which is owned by Whitney & Bodden, of Mobile, left Tampa on September 1 with a cargo of lumber for Martinique in the West Indies. Struck by high gales, the Golden Rod developed leaks, and the crew were forced to man the pumps for twenty-eight days, when the ship had to be abandoned. Launching a small boat in a heavy sea, the men sailed for three days and made Mariguana in the Bahamas, but were unable to make a landing because of storm conditions. Finally they landed in Acklins Bay, where the lighthouse keepers cared for them, sending them on to Nassau today.

TRANSPORTATION DISPUTE IN N.Y.

Immediate Recapture of Leased Lines From Rapid Transit Company Is Advocated

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Immediate recapture by New York City, by declaratory judgment process if necessary, of its leased lines from the New York Rapid Transit Company and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, was urged in the report of Samuel Untermeyer, special counsel for the New York State Transit Committee, as a result of a special hearing held last Summer.

Untermeyer's recommendations embracing a virtual reorganization of an important part of the city's transit facilities, contemplate control of the recaptured lines by a new semi-political body of nine members to be known as the Board of Transit Control. His plan assumed that a five-cent fare will be maintained.

In the case of the Interborough Transit Company, Untermeyer recommended that upon notice of recapture proceedings, the company will be offered $245,549,000 par value of New York City bonds for the purchase of all its property and assets including the Manhattan elevated railway lines. If this offer was accepted, Untermeyer said, recapture proceedings might be dismissed.

The entire scheme, Untermeyer said, is predicated on ratification of an amendment permitting the city to issue bonds for $300,000,000 outside the debt limit, such funds to be partially used in the recapture and remuneration plan. His report outlines in considerable detail all working phases of what amounts to a new transit system.

Throughout the report the corporation counsel criticizes the existing traction companies and their dominant figures whom he would debar from participation in the management of the proposed reorganized system.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—Wallace Shipyards, Limited, of North Vancouver, has been awarded the contract for construction of a powerful cruiser for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police service in the Western Arctic, Dominion Government officials at Ottawa have announced. The vessel will be built of British Columbia fir, sheathed with ironbark. She will have an ice crushing bow and powerful frames to resist the ice. Specifications demand that the vessel develop a speed of from seven to nine knots an hour. She will be ninety-five feet long, twenty-four feet beam, twelve feet deep, and 110 deadweight tons. She will have accommodation for thirteen officers and men, and her cruising radius will be several thousand miles. She will be well armed.

MILLIONAIRE TEACHES SON

GOLDEN GATE SHIPPING MAGNATE INSTRUCTS IN ART OF SAILING BOAT

Sole Survivor of Whitehall Fleet Is Commandeered for Lessons for Tom Crowley, Jr.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—"Lift the jib sheet a trifle, she's too flat. Slack away on the main sheet and you won't have so much weather helm. Keep agoing, you're on the starboard tack and have the right of way"—

No, this was not a scrap of talk overheard on a racing yacht yesterday. Instead the calendar had mysteriously turned back, back, how many years?—and a Whitehall boat was sailing across the bay with young Tom Crowley taking instructions from his dad.

The boat itself was, so far as can be learned, the only surviving member of that fleet which used to surge forth from along the waterfront what time a ship was sighted outside. With white ash breeze and real wind to propel them, these boats, long before the chug of gasoline engines was heard, would race out to be the first one alongside and win the prize of orders for provisions, repair yard or even appointment of an agent.

It was in one of these boats that Tom Crowley, now millionaire tug owner and shipping magnate, took his first lessons in seamanship from his father. Yesterday he began passing on these lessons to his own son, Tom Jr.

WANTS YACHT

Young Tom, it seems, wanted a racing yacht. Tom Sr. said he could have one when he had shown he knew the art of sailing. The best way to begin was in a Whitehall boat, the same way he had started.

But where was there a whitehall boat left, with its sprit-mainsail and tiny jib and its long centreboard amidships? One survivor was found down at the Chamber of Commerce lookout station. It had belonged to the late Heinrich Benges, for years a lookout at Meiggs' wharf, and had been used by him to give orders to incoming steamers before the days of launches.

The boat has always been cared for by the lookouts at the wharf, and was found to be as seaworthy as when first launched. Tom Crowley, who bought Marin Island, a rocky islet standing in shoal water near the San Rafael entrance, some years ago, has a Summer cottage there. So the Whitehall boat was commandeered and Tom Sr. and Jr. started out to sail up to Marin Island, where Tom Jr. will receive a course of instructions complete enough to warrant him a ticket for any small sailing craft.

Victoria Machinery Depot Experiences Busy Period—New Plates for Princess Maquinna

Six vessels were docked for repairs and overhauling by the Victoria Machinery Depot last month.

A new tail shaft was made and installed on the C.P.R. vessel Charmer. The Princess Maquinna provided one of the biggest jobs of the month. Damaged plates and frames were cut out from her hull and replaced and she was cleaned and painted while on the ways. Boiler repairs were made to the Island Tug and Barge Company's tugboat Burrard Chief and to the C.G.S. Estevan. Hull and engine repairs were made to the Otter, and the Princess Patricia was hauled out to have her port turbine engine removed. Another turbine for the Patricia has yet to be delivered.

JAPANESE SHIP EN ROUTE HERE

With sixty-three measurement tons of cargo for Victoria, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Tokiwa Maru sailed from Yokohama on October 1, and will reach this port on October 15, according to word received here yesterday. In addition to general freight, the Tokiwa will discharge sixty bales of raw silk and four cases of silk goods at this port.
